1. The Warning from Aster Island (阿斯特岛的警报)

主题：自然地理

目标词：41

Dr. Lin arrived on Aster Island, a volcanic island rising sharply from the Pacific. Her task was to study how the hydrosphere and the lithosphere continually reshaped its landscape. After recording the station's longitude and latitude, she looked through the morning mist toward the horizon. The coast consisted of dark granite, crossed by veins of white quartz and iron ore. When a small pebble clung to her magnet, she labelled it and carried it back to the research station.

The station's greenhouse also served as a laboratory. Cylinders of hydrogen supplied weather balloons, while a tray held samples of red oxide. On a screen, a thermodynamic model traced heat rising from Earth's core, through the mantle and crust, toward a chamber of magma beneath the island. That year, El Nino had weakened the summer monsoon, and a long drought had dried the forest. Smog covered the harbour, and a bitter fume drifted from distant fires. By noon, a light breeze became a violent gust, then a gale. Over the sea, a narrow tornado touched the water.

Suddenly, the instruments registered a strong seismic pulse. An underwater slope collapsed, triggering a tsunami. Sirens sounded as flooding cut the coastal road and a muddy torrent rushed across the lower terrain. High above the village, rain and vibration released an avalanche of snow and rock from the island's high summit. At the same moment, a mishap shattered a hydrogen valve inside the greenhouse. Lin wanted to return for her samples, but the station chief stopped her. The leaking gas could endanger her life and jeopardise the entire rescue. What began as harsh weather had become a destructive, catastrophic chain of events; another delay could turn it into an even greater calamity.

Lin abandoned the samples but took the drive containing her data. She guided the villagers to shelters on solid high ground and transmitted her measurements to the mainland. The tsunami destroyed the station, yet the evacuation succeeded. Weeks later, scientists used her records to improve the island's warning system. Lin understood that the disaster had not been a collection of unrelated accidents: air, water, rock, heat, and human decisions had formed one connected story.

林博士来到阿斯特岛。这是一座从太平洋中陡然升起的火山岛。她的任务是研究水圈和岩石圈如何持续改变岛屿的地貌。记录完研究站的经度和纬度后，她透过清晨的薄雾望向地平线。海岸由深色花岗岩构成，岩石间穿插着白色石英和铁矿石的矿脉。一颗小鹅卵石被她的磁铁吸住，她便贴好标签，把它带回研究站。

研究站的温室同时也是实验室。几只氢气瓶为气象气球供气，托盘里则放着红色氧化物样本。屏幕上的热力学模型显示，热量从地球地核向上穿过地幔和地壳，抵达岛屿下方的岩浆腔。那一年，厄尔尼诺现象削弱了夏季季风，长期干旱使森林变得异常干燥。港口上空笼罩着雾霾，远处火灾产生的刺鼻烟气随风飘来。中午时，一阵轻柔的微风变成猛烈的阵风，继而发展为烈风。海面上，一股狭长的龙卷风触及水面。

突然，仪器记录到一次强烈的地震活动。水下斜坡坍塌，引发了海啸。警报响起时，洪水泛滥切断了沿海道路，泥泞的激流冲过低处地形。在村庄上方的高山上，降雨和震动又引发了一场夹杂冰雪与岩石的雪崩。与此同时，温室里发生了一起意外事故，氢气阀门破裂。林博士想返回去抢救样本，却被站长拦住。泄漏的气体可能危及她的生命，并危及整个救援行动。原本的恶劣天气已经演变成一连串具有破坏性且灾难性的事件；再耽搁片刻，就可能酿成更大的灾难。

林博士放弃了样本，但带走了存有研究数据的硬盘。她把村民带到地势坚固的高处避难所，并将测量结果传送给大陆。海啸摧毁了研究站，但撤离行动成功了。几周后，科学家利用她的记录改进了岛上的预警系统。林博士终于明白，这场灾害并不是一连串互不相关的事故：空气、水、岩石、热量以及人的选择，共同构成了一个彼此关联的故事。

2. The Last Coastal Flight (最后一次海岸飞行)

主题：自然地理

目标词：41

Mara was a young pilot assigned to carry medicine from the mainland to a fishing village on a remote peninsula. The old route followed the coast, past a white cliff and a stony beach, but an advancing glacier had changed the northern terrain. Her instructor warned that a superficial reading of the map could turn a simple flight into disaster. She therefore checked the station's meteorology report and plotted the village's position in the southern hemisphere, far from the equator but well outside the polar zone.

At first the flight was smooth, the weather was mild, and the Atlantic looked almost pacific. Then cabin heating began to fail, and salt air made the controls deteriorate. A moderate crosswind pushed the aircraft toward a plateau whose vertical wall rose above a rough, sandy plain. Turning west would aggravate the fuel problem; continuing north might endanger the engine. Mara chose to upgrade her route with live satellite data rather than trust the outdated chart. She adjusted the aircraft's axis and crossed a narrow gap between two ridges.

Below, a brook joined a larger stream, which wound from its mountain source through a swamp and into a river delta. The water had begun to erode the banks and degrade the village's only road. Using the river for navigation, Mara reached a calm gulf and landed beside an abandoned marine research station. The villagers arrived by boat and collected the medicine. That evening, an engineer explained that the glacier's meltwater would be guided toward a dry oasis inland. Mara marked the new channels on charts shared with pilots across Oceania, the Mediterranean, and every neighbouring ocean route. Her last training flight became the map that kept future crews safe.

年轻飞行员玛拉接到任务，要把药品从大陆运往一个偏远半岛上的渔村。旧航线沿着海岸飞行，途中经过白色悬崖和一片遍布石块的多石的海滩，但不断推进的冰川已经改变了北部地形。教官提醒她，只对地图作肤浅的解读，原本简单的飞行也可能酿成灾难。因此，她查看了气象站的气象学报告，并标出了村庄的位置：它处在南半球，远离赤道，但也并非极地的区域。

起初飞行十分平稳，天气很温和，大西洋也显得十分平静。随后机舱供暖开始失灵，盐分很高的空气又使操纵装置逐渐恶化。一股中等的侧风把飞机推向一座高原，它垂直的岩壁高悬在一片崎岖的、沙质的平原上方。向西转会加剧燃油问题，继续向北则可能危及发动机。玛拉决定用实时卫星数据升级航线，而不再依赖过时的航图。她调整飞机的轴线，穿过两道山脊之间狭窄的缺口。

下方，一条小溪汇入更大的溪流，河水从山间源头出发，穿过沼泽，流入河流三角洲。水流开始侵蚀河岸，并使村里唯一的道路退化。玛拉以河流辅助导航，终于抵达一处平静的海湾，降落在废弃的海洋的研究站旁。村民乘船赶来取走药品。当晚，一名工程师告诉她，冰川融水将被引向内陆一处干燥的绿洲。玛拉把新水道标在航图上，并与大洋洲、地中海以及邻近各条海洋航线的飞行员共享。她的最后一次训练飞行，就这样变成了保护后来机组的地图。

3. The Weather Station on Raven Ridge (乌鸦岭气象站)

主题：自然地理

Nadia managed a weather station on a desolate hillside outside a rural town. To the northeast stood a snowy peak; a long ridge ran southeast, while the road descended southwest toward a new suburb on the town's outskirts. The surrounding soil was arid, yet an adjacent valley remained moist and humid because underground water rose through layers of sediment, silt, and dark dirt. Developers wanted to mount solar panels on the steep slope, but Nadia feared their plan ignored the mountain's unstable weather.

One April afternoon, the temperature climbed to twenty degrees Celsius. Warm air from the tropics met a frigid current above the eastern valley. The station recorded a sudden thermal change: a gentle sprinkle became a shower, then a violent downpour mixed with hail. Nadia felt a sharp chill and began to shiver as the sky turned stormy. Snow began to thaw irregularly, sending water down channels that the builders had placed in an inappropriate direction.

The resulting landslide was not inevitable. Nadia radioed the crew, but a broken antenna made her message unclear. She ran downhill and reached them just as toxic liquid leaked from a fuel drum. Together they moved the drum and dug a trench, preventing the spill from entering the wet valley. The solar frames were damaged, but the environmental harm was not irreversible. Afterward, the company abandoned its rigid plan and asked Nadia to choose safer sites on the northwest side. Her report explained that the mountain's eastern, sometimes called oriental, exposure received strong morning sun but also rapid temperature shifts. By respecting those patterns, the new station supplied clean power without poisoning the valley.

娜迪娅管理着一座气象站，它坐落在一座荒凉的山坡上，位于某个乡村的小镇之外。东北方耸立着一座积雪的山峰；一道长长的山脊伸向东南方，公路则向西南方下行，通往镇子郊区边缘的新近郊住宅区。周围土壤十分干旱的，但一个毗邻的山谷因为地下水穿过沉积

物、淤泥和深色泥土不断上涌，依旧保持湿润的和潮湿的状态。开发商打算在陡峭斜坡上安装太阳能板，娜迪娅却担心他们忽略了山区多变的天气。

四月的一个下午，气温升至二十摄氏度。来自热带地区的温暖的空气与东部山谷上方的严寒的气流相遇。气象站记录到突然的热量的变化：轻微的零星小雨变成一阵阵雨，继而发展成夹着冰雹的猛烈倾盆大雨。天空变得暴风雨的，娜迪娅感到一阵刺骨的寒意，不禁开始发抖。积雪开始不规则地融化，水流沿着施工人员设置在不恰当的方向上的排水沟奔流而下。

这场山体滑坡并非不可避免的。娜迪娅用无线电呼叫施工队，但损坏的天线使信息含混不清。她跑下山，赶到时一只油桶正泄漏有毒的液体。大家合力移走油桶、挖出沟渠，阻止污染物进入湿润山谷。太阳能支架虽然受损，环境损害却并非不可逆转的。事后，公司放弃僵化方案，请娜迪娅在西北方选择更安全的位置。她在报告中说明，山体东部的朝向 - - 有时也称为东方的朝向 - - 能获得强烈晨光，却也会经历快速温差。新气象站尊重这些规律，最终既提供了清洁电力，也没有毒害山谷。

4. The Reservoir That Returned (重获生机的水库)

主题：自然地理

When geologist Arun returned to his childhood valley, the magnificent waterfall had become a thin drip. A factory on the fringe of the wilderness had begun to deforest the upper valley. Its waste introduced a dangerous pollutant that could contaminate the main reservoir. A dense layer of synthetic foam floated beside broken machinery and other debris. The once fertile river margin was turning barren, and a widening gap had appeared in the rock plate above the dam.

Arun studied the valley's geology and proposed an intensive restoration. Workers would drain polluted pools, remove waste, and fertilize damaged soil with natural compost. They installed solar pumps that made clean water gush from an underground spring. In sunlight, water would evaporate into vapour, then precipitate over the forest and refill the streams. Some officials called this merely a beautiful theory, but Arun used a lunar and seasonal calendar to show how rainfall intensity changed between sunrise and sunset.

During a rare eclipse, the crack above the dam suddenly released a puff of dust. Arun ordered an evacuation. Moments later, loose stones fell, yet the repaired barrier held. As the moon moved away, sunshine revealed only minor damage. Over the following year, seedlings began to emerge, wildlife returned, and the revived waterfall created a dramatic rainbow. Villagers joked that their valley looked like paradise, though Arun said no place was guaranteed by heaven; it survived because people respected nature. The project showed that technology and conservation were not opposites. Used carefully, pumps and data could restore the natural cycle instead of replacing it. By then, morning dew shone on the grass.

地质学家阿伦回到童年生活过的山谷时，那道曾经壮丽的瀑布已经缩成细细的滴水。一家建在荒野的边缘地带的工厂开始砍伐森林。它排放的废物带来一种危险污染物，可能污染主要水库。一层浓密的合成的泡沫漂浮在损坏的机器和其他残骸旁。昔日肥沃的河岸边缘正在变得贫瘠的，水坝上方的岩石板块还出现了一道不断扩大的裂缝。

阿伦研究山谷的地质情况，提出一套密集的修复方案。工人要排干受污染的水潭，清走废物，再用天然堆肥给受损土壤施肥。他们安装了太阳能的水泵，让清水从地下泉水中涌出。阳光下，水会蒸发成水汽，随后降水到森林上方，再次补充溪流。有些官员认为这只是漂亮的理论，但阿伦利用月球的周期和季节日历，说明降雨强度在日出与日落之间如何变化。

一次罕见的日食期间，水坝上方的裂缝突然喷出一股尘土。阿伦立刻下令疏散。片刻后，松动的石块坠落，但修复后的屏障经受住了冲击。月亮移开后，阳光照出了并不严重的损坏。随后一年里，幼苗开始出现，野生动物重新归来，复苏的瀑布形成一道引人注目的彩虹。村民开玩笑说山谷宛如天堂，阿伦却说，没有任何地方会由上天保证平安；这里得以保存，是因为人们尊重自然。这个项目证明，技术和保护并非对立面：只要谨慎使用，水泵和数据就能修复自然循环，而不是取代它。那时，清晨的露水还在草上闪光。

5. Seeds for Tomorrow (留给明天的种子)

主题：自然地理 / 植物研究

目标词：41

Leila inherited an abandoned farm beside an old petroleum depot. The soil smelled of gasoline, and little vegetation remained. Neighbours advised her to sell, but her grandmother had once practised horticulture there and recorded every local herb in a botany notebook. Leila decided to reclaim the land and rebuild its ecosystem through eco-friendly methods. A laboratory confirmed that one oil-eating fungus could break down pollution without harming other organisms.

Leila used a spade and plough to loosen the arable field, then a rake to clear stones. She spread compost in a heap, stored straw in a stack, and tied seedlings into each bundle. In spring she began to sow grain and cultivate a perennial medicinal plant. She chose a shade-tolerant bean and a short-day flower whose pollen attracted native bees. Under the right conditions, the seeds began to germinate, each bud ready to burgeon.

Her brother, a geneticist, warned that pollution could cause a harmful mutation, so they monitored plant genetics, natural variation, and species diversity. Instead of careless hybridisation, they allowed selected plants to reproduce and evolve over several seasons. Their growth did fluctuate, and white mould ruined one harvest, but Leila did not quit. She also learned to rear chickens, whose manure enriched the soil. By the third year, workers could pluck herbs and gather a healthy yield. Measurements showed strong photosynthesis by day and the plants continued to respire normally at night. The depot owner finally paid for the cleanup. Leila kept her grandmother's notebook in the farmhouse, now surrounded by green fields: proof that damaged land could recover when science served patience.

6. The Forest That Paid Its Debt (偿还债务的森林)

主题：植物研究

目标词：41

Jin managed a failing plantation at the edge of a rainforest. For decades, workers had cut every useful log for timber and burned scraps into charcoal. The company's cheerful tree logo could not hide dying soil, blocked water circulation, or rising carbon emissions. Jin, trained in forestry, promised the village that the land would no longer be exhausted for a quick profit.

He divided the slope into each terrace and planted pine, olive, and flowering vine. Along the river he restored reed beds; in open fields he protected the meadow and lawn. A living fence of thorn replaced wire. Beneath every broad bough, workers spread hay so that it could decompose rather than rot in wet piles. Scientists added an enzyme that acted as a catalyst, helping dead matter decay and release each nutrient into the soil. The new mechanism improved root uptake and helped counterbalance the carbon once lost.

The first year brought disappointment. Cut flowers became stale, young leaves withered, and algae - one green alga after another - filled an irrigation pond. Yet Jin reduced fertilizer before it could exceed safe levels and redirected water through the reeds. In spring, violet and tulip plants began to bloom. Their aromatic scent drifted over rows of mint; fruit trees blossomed and later ripened. By the fifth year, wildlife had returned and timber harvests came only from carefully selected trees. The plantation earned less in a single season but remained productive every year. At a village meeting, Jin removed the old logo from the gate. "A forest is not a warehouse," he said. "Its real profit is that it can keep living."

7. Fireline at Kestrel Reserve (红隼保护区的防火线)

主题：植物研究 / 动物保护

目标词：41

When a bush fire began beyond Kestrel Reserve, zoologist Ava led a mixed team: an ecologist, a botanist, and local rangers. Their aim was not merely to extinguish flames but to stop the fire from causing the extinction of a rare frog species. This amphibian had originated in one isolated wetland; its survival now derived from a spring hidden among the reserve's flora. If bulldozers entered carelessly, they might demolish nesting ground, infringe wildlife law, and undermine years of conservation.

The reserve held remarkable fauna: every mammal, primate, vertebrate, and reptile had a role in the ecosystem. A herbivore herd opened paths through grass, while each carnivore controlled weaker animals. As smoke thickened, a flock of birds fled above a herd of antelope. A swarm of insects moved like a dark cloud. Tourists formed a frightened throng, then a dangerous crowd at the only gate. One angry man called a trapped boar a brute, but Ava refused to leave it to perish.

Her team tested an experimental, seasonal firebreak planted with low-growing herbs. The conditions were favourable: it required minimal water, remained productive in drought, and provided considerable protection. Rangers used an efficient pump for maximal pressure and foam at the optimal concentration. A drone carried a emergency destruct command so it could safely destroy itself if flames damaged its controls. The method proved effective. Although the fire crossed an immense field and caused massive loss beyond the reserve, it stopped at the wetland. At dawn, Ava heard the rare frogs calling. The rescue did not erase the disaster, but it proved that careful science could protect both people and wildlife.

8. The Nursery Before the Flood (洪水来临前的育幼中心)

主题：动物保护

目标词：41

At Riverbend Wildlife Centre, geneticist Mateo studied how every living descendant carried a thread from an ancient ancestor. A rescued wolf cub, an elephant calf, and the offspring of a rare fox formed one young-animal subgroup in the nursery. Nearby lived a panda, kangaroo, camel, penguin, turtle, and injured whale. The collection sounded improbable, but each animal had been seized from illegal traders and was waiting for a suitable home. The connection could stem from thousands of generations. The nursery also sheltered a rescued wolf.

Mateo's job was to help threatened animals breed without damaging their identity. He would not let distinct species interbreed or hybridize merely to produce unusual attractions; such experiments could cause sterility. Instead, he recorded how adults selected a mate, performed courtship, guarded a brood, or returned to water to spawn. He watched each youngster mature, noting a soft paw, curved beak, damaged fin, healing wing, bright plume, stiff bristle, and even the curl of a tail. He also treated a worm parasite found near a web-building spider, while a butterfly and a noisy cricket occupied the insect house.

One night, floodwater broke through the outer wall. Mateo feared disease would proliferate if dirty water reached the nursery. He and keeper Suri moved the smallest animals first, then guided the elephant away from a display of confiscated ivory. A frightened camel kicked a gate with its horn-shaped handle, accidentally opening the route to higher ground. The centre's Komodo dragon was carried in a secure crate, and the wolf followed its keeper. By dawn, no animal had been lost. Mateo later redesigned the centre around separate natural habitats. Visitors still came, but the nursery no longer displayed rescued creatures as curiosities; it prepared them to return, whenever possible, to lives of their own.

在河湾野生动物中心，遗传学家马特奥研究每一位活着的后代如何继承远古祖先留下的一条生命线。一只获救的狼幼崽、一头大象幼兽和一只稀有狐狸的后代组成了育幼中心的一个幼兽亚组。附近还住着熊猫、袋鼠、骆驼、企鹅、海龟和受伤的鲸。这些动物聚在一起看似不可思议，其实它们都从非法商贩手中被解救出来，正在等待合适的归宿。

这种联系可以起源于数千代以前。育幼中心还收留了一只获救的狼。

马特奥的职责，是帮助濒危动物安全繁殖，又不破坏其物种特性。他绝不允许不同物种仅为了制造奇观而异种交配或进行杂交，因为这种实验可能导致不育。相反，他记录成年动物如何选择配偶、进行求偶、保护一窝幼崽，或回到水中产卵。他观察每只幼兽逐渐成熟，记录柔软的爪、弯曲的喙、受损的鳍、正在愈合的翅膀、鲜亮的羽饰、坚硬的刚毛，甚至尾巴的卷曲。他还治疗了一种蠕虫寄生虫；这种虫出现在一只结网蜘蛛附近，而昆虫馆里还住着蝴蝶和吵闹的蟋蟀。

一天夜里，洪水冲破外墙。马特奥担心污水进入育幼区后疾病会迅速增殖。他和饲养员苏里先转移最小的动物，随后引导大象离开一处陈列被没收象牙的展柜。一头受惊的骆驼踢中了带有角形把手的门，意外打开了通往高地的路线。中心的科莫多巨蜥被装进安全箱，狼也跟随饲养员撤离。黎明时，没有一只动物失踪。后来，马特奥按照彼此独立的自然栖息地重新设计中心。游客依旧会来，但这里不再把获救动物当作奇观展示，而是帮助它们尽可能重返自己的生活。

9. The Quarantine Barn (隔离谷仓)

主题：动物保护

目标词：41

Veterinarian Hana arrived at Willow Farm after a newborn lamb developed a fever. The farm housed an ox, a breeding bull, two buffalo, a horse, zebra, and elderly donkey. In the barn, she removed the horse's saddle and harness, then examined the lamb's anatomy. A quick test revealed an unfamiliar microbe. If it caused an epidemic, every nearby animal habitat could be threatened.

Hana closed the gate in the thorny hedge and began tracing contact. A shepherd had recently found a fox pup beside a hive. Birds also moved freely through the yard: a falcon and hawk hunted above it; an owl nested in the roof; a swallow, pigeon, crow, swan, and goose drank from the same pond. Even the farm cock had escaped his pen. Near the grain store, a mouse, rat, squirrel, and hare could creep or crawl through small gaps. Any one of them might carry the germ.

Instead of blaming wildlife, Hana collected samples. She heard the bull roar when a bee delivered a painful sting, but the commotion led her to a leaking feed sack. Laboratory analysis showed that damp grain had grown the microbe. It blocked a gene involved in metabolism, preventing young animals from absorbing protein and a vital vitamin. Infected glands would secrete excess fluid, while the kidneys struggled to excrete waste.

Hana destroyed the spoiled feed, isolated the lamb, and disinfected the barn. Within two days its fever fell, and no other animal became ill. She also fitted mesh over storage vents without blocking the birds' nesting sites. The farm reopened a week later. The lesson was simple: quarantine worked best when evidence, rather than fear, identified the true source of disease.

一只新生羔羊发烧后，兽医哈娜赶到柳树农场。农场里养着一头阉牛、一头种公牛、两头水牛、一匹马、一匹斑马和一头年迈的驴。她在谷仓里卸下马的鞍和挽具，随后检查羔羊的解剖结构。快速检测发现一种陌生微生物。如果它引发流行病，附近所有动物栖息地都可能受到威胁。

哈娜关上带刺树篱中的大门，开始追踪接触途径。一名牧羊人最近在一个蜂箱旁发现过狐狸幼崽。鸟类也会自由穿过院子：隼和鹰在上空捕猎，猫头鹰在屋顶筑巢，燕子、鸽子、乌鸦、天鹅和鹅则在同一池塘饮水。甚至农场的公鸡也逃出了围栏。粮仓附近，小鼠、大鼠、松鼠和野兔都能从狭小缝隙中悄悄潜行或爬行。它们中的任何一个都可能携带这种病菌。

哈娜没有责怪野生动物，而是采集样本。一只蜜蜂狠狠蜇了公牛，哈娜听见它发出吼叫，这场骚动却把她引向一个漏粮的饲料袋。化验显示，微生物来自受潮谷物。它会阻断一个参与新陈代谢的基因，使幼畜无法吸收蛋白质和一种关键维生素。受感染的腺体会分泌过量液体，肾脏也难以排泄废物。

哈娜销毁变质饲料，隔离羔羊，并给谷仓消毒。两天内，羔羊退烧了，没有其他动物患病。她还在通风口加装网罩，同时保留鸟类的筑巢位置。一周后，农场重新开放。事情说明：只有让证据而非恐惧找出疾病的真正来源，隔离措施才能发挥最佳效果。

10. The Shepherd of Kepler Station (开普勒空间站的牧羊人)

主题：动物保护 / 太空探索

目标词：41

Samir had once been a mountain shepherd; now he was the animal keeper aboard a research spacecraft crossing interstellar space. Its propulsion system carried a biological module, an astronomical probe, and seeds for a future terrestrial habitat. The crew called him “the shepherd of the galaxy,” although he knew the cosmos was too vast for anyone to herd. Their destination lay beneath a bright celestial object that astronomy identified as a planet, though an old sponsor had chosen it through astrology.

The module held insects, plants, and two small reptiles - not a display of captive life, but a test of whether a closed ecosystem could remain functional. One reptile was a nocturnal predator whose instinct was to devour moving prey; during simulated winter it became dormant, almost entering hibernation. Samir used acoustic and optical sensors to trace every movement. Their controls were intuitive, and alternate food chambers kept the vulnerable prey safe. The animals were not tame, so Samir wore defensive gloves whenever they underwent a health check.

Halfway through the voyage, a meteorite struck the outer shell. A chunk of metal tore loose, the station entered uncontrolled motion, and a broken vent sent cold air through the module. Flight dynamics predicted a collision with the planet’s moon and its enormous crater. The captain proposed emptying the animal chamber to save power, effectively choosing to exterminate its occupants. Samir argued that their survival was central to the mission, not a luxury. Using the reptiles’ heat-sensing tail cameras and the probe’s spare battery, he located the leak and sealed it.

The spacecraft regained control just as a comet crossed the distant sky. Months later, the ecosystem completed its trial without harming either predator or prey. Samir’s mountain skills - patience, observation, and respect for subsistence - had protected life between the stars.

航程过半时，一块陨石击中外壳。一大块金属脱落，空间站陷入失控运动，损坏的通风口又把冷空气送进生物舱。飞行动力学预测，他们将撞上行星的卫星和上面巨大的陨石坑。船长建议排空动物舱以节省能源，这实际上等于选择消灭其中的生命。萨米尔坚持认为，让它们生存下来是任务核心，而不是奢侈要求。他利用安装在爬行动物尾巴上的热感摄像头和探测器的备用电池找到泄漏点，将其封住。

飞船恢复控制时，一颗彗星正划过遥远天空。几个月后，生态系统顺利完成试验，捕食者和猎物都没有受到伤害。萨米尔从山区生活中学到的耐心、观察力，以及对维持生计之道的尊重，最终保护了星际之间的生命。

11. The Signal Inside the Stone (石头里的信号)

主题：太空探索 / 学校教育

目标词：41

At the university observatory, student Lina watched a probe complete a flyby of asteroid Orpheus. It was the final stage of a seven-year expedition in planetary exploration. On the screen, the curve of the asteroid's trajectory crossed the ecliptic and settled into a temporary orbit. Its measured diameter and radius matched predictions, but its blue-green spectrum did not. What the public saw as a beautiful spectacle might conceal an unknown substance.

The probe returned a sealed sample. Lina's primary task was to describe its composition without damaging the only specimen. She identified a solid outer shell and a pocket of fluid inside. Every particle, molecule, ion, and electron produced a distinct signal at a certain frequency. Through ultraviolet light and careful refraction, she found a barely discernible pattern surrounding an otherwise invisible carbon compound. Her professor wondered whether it was a fossil or a natural formation created by quantum effects. Lina proposed that the team synthesize the compound before opening the sample.

Then a storm damaged the roof antenna and overloaded a laboratory circuit. A falling instrument struck the container. Lina caught it, but one fragment broke away and a heavy cabinet nearly squashed the analysis unit. The possible loss felt overwhelming; years of work seemed one accident away from despair. She shut off the power and placed the fragment in a backup chamber.

Her caution saved the evidence. Later analysis showed that the pattern came from a collision between mineral-rich ice and solar radiation, not from life. It was still a major discovery: the same reaction might help explain how complex carbon compounds formed before a cataclysmic impact shaped the early planets. Lina did not find an alien fossil, but she learned that science advances when disappointment is examined as carefully as wonder.

在大学天文台里，学生莉娜注视着探测器完成对俄耳甫斯小行星的飞越。这是历时七年的行星探索远征的最后阶段。屏幕上，小行星的曲线轮廓穿过黄道，进入临时轨道。测得的

直径与半径都符合预测，但它呈现的蓝绿色光谱却不吻合。公众眼中的美丽奇观，可能隐藏着一种未知物质。

探测器送回一份密封样本。莉娜的首要的任务，是在不损坏唯一标本的情况下说明它的组成。她识别出固体外壳和内部一小袋流体。每个粒子、分子、离子和电子都会在特定频率产生独特的信号。借助紫外线的光和精确的折射分析，她发现一种勉强可辨认的图案，环绕着原本不可见的碳化合物。教授猜测它究竟是化石，还是由量子的效应产生的天然构造。莉娜建议，先在实验室合成这种化合物，再打开样本。

这时，一场暴风雨损坏了屋顶天线，并使实验室电路过载。一台掉落的仪器撞上容器。莉娜虽然接住了它，却仍有一块碎片脱落，一个沉重柜子还差点压扁分析设备。可能失去成果的压力令人难以承受的；多年工作仿佛只差一次意外就会化为绝望。她切断电源，把碎片放入备用舱。

她的谨慎保住了证据。后续分析表明，该图案源自富含矿物质的冰与太阳辐射之间的一次碰撞，而非生命迹象。这仍是一项重大发现：同样的反应或许能解释，在一次塑造早期行星的灾变性的撞击之前，复杂碳化合物如何形成。莉娜没有找到外星化石，却明白了一个道理：失望和惊奇一样，都值得科学认真审视。

12. The Class Nobody Wanted (没人愿意教的班)

主题：学校教育

目标词：41

Mira was a novice teacher when the headmaster of Northbridge Academy asked her to lead an evening class for adults who had never completed secondary school. The academy enjoyed great prestige, but this programme was notorious for losing students. Mira had little expertise in adult education, yet the headmaster chose her because she was diligent, patient, and capable of listening. Her first task was to recruit twelve learners affected by illiteracy and help them become both literate and numerate.

The central issue soon appeared. Years of humiliation had convinced the students that education belonged to an elite. Tomas, a clever mechanic with strong practical aptitude, called himself an idiot whenever a textbook passage seemed obscure. Salma could solve a market-price riddle with quick wit, but froze before written arithmetic. Mira refused to make them cram rules. Her scheme used bus schedules, repair manuals, and household bills to instil confidence. She would emphasise one useful skill each week, then stimulate discussion through real problems.

An eminent professor visited and dismissed the lessons as too simple. His criticism almost spoiled the class' s new confidence. Mira asked each learner to explain a skill from work instead. Tomas demonstrated an engine fault; Salma calculated interest; a cook described food safety. Their practical wisdom revealed an all-round intelligence no examination had measured. The professor admitted that being academically intelligent, socially smart, or mechanically gifted were different strengths; no single test could identify a genius.

That recognition gave the class fresh impetus. Their personal motive was no longer merely a certificate: they wanted to enhance their independence. Mira did not indulge excuses, but she used every small success to motivate them and spur further effort. After months of painstaking work, all twelve passed. At graduation, they received the loudest applause and the esteem they had once believed was reserved for others.

核心问题很快显现出来。多年的羞辱让学生认定，教育只属于精英。托马斯是一名聪明的机械师，具有很强的实践天资，可每当教材内容显得晦涩的，他就骂自己是笨蛋。萨尔玛能凭敏捷的机智解开市场价格谜题，面对书面算术却会僵住。米拉不让他们死记硬背规则。她的教学方案使用公交时刻表、维修手册和家庭账单来逐渐灌输信心。她每周强调一种实用技能，再用真实问题激发讨论。

一位杰出的教授前来参观，却嫌课程过于简单。他的批评险些破坏全班刚建立的信心。米拉转而请每位学员讲解自己的工作技能。托马斯演示发动机故障，萨尔玛计算利息，一名厨师讲解食品安全。他们的实践智慧展现了考试从未衡量过的全面的才智。教授承认，学术上有才智的、社交上机灵的和机械方面有天赋，是不同的长处；没有任何一种考试能够认定谁是天才。

这份认可给全班带来了新的推动力。他们学习的个人动机不再只是一张证书，而是希望增强自己的独立能力。米拉不会纵容借口，却用每一次小成功去激励他们，并促使他们继续努力。经过数月艰苦细致的学习，十二人全部通过考试。毕业典礼上，他们获得最热烈的掌声，也赢得了曾经以为只属于别人的尊重。

13. The Name Missing from the Register (名册上消失的名字)

主题：学校教育

目标词：41

During orientation, history fresher Noor volunteered to help make a documentary about Bellweather University. The principal, the dean, and the entire history faculty wanted it ready for the coed institution's centenary. Noor's mentor, a retired lecturer, assigned a sophomore as her camera assistant. Their planned coverage included the campus, old dorm, dining hall, and chemistry laboratory. It sounded routine until Noor found that the first student register had a page cut out.

The missing page concerned Amara Vale, once a village pupil and later a respected diplomat. The official roster claimed she never completed matriculation, yet a newspaper article said she earned a bachelor degree there. Noor searched an inventory of boxes, an archive index, a handwritten bibliography, and an old encyclopedia. Inside a cracked picture frame, she discovered Amara's diary, a campus tale, several pages of poetry, and a sketch of the original science building. Together they supplied the missing context: the university had once refused to enrol women openly, so Amara attended under her brother's name.

The administrators feared the discovery would damage the centenary. Noor argued that hiding it would repeat the injustice. She prepared a balanced profile and showed her first draft to surviving alumni. A former registrar produced a procedure manual and Amara's teaching license, both confirming the account. The dean agreed to certify the documents, while Noor's mentor said the evidence would qualify for permanent archival status.

The finished documentary did not present the university as flawless. It showed how one determined student had entered secretly and helped later women study openly. At the premiere, Amara's granddaughter placed the recovered name back on the register. The audience stood - not to celebrate a perfect past, but to honour a truth finally restored.

在新生入学介绍期间，历史专业大一新生努尔自愿协助拍摄一部介绍贝尔韦瑟大学的纪录片。校长、学院院长和整个历史系全体教员都希望影片赶上这所男女同校的大学百年庆典。努尔的导师是一名退休讲师，他给她安排了一名大二学生担任摄影助理。计划的报道范围包括校园、老宿舍、食堂和化学实验室。一切本来很寻常，直到努尔发现最早的学生登记簿被撕掉了一页。

缺失的一页涉及阿玛拉·韦尔。她曾是一名乡村小学生，后来成为受人尊敬的外交官。官方花名册声称她从未完成大学入学手续，一篇报纸文章却说她在那里获得了学士学位。努尔查阅箱子的清单、档案索引、手写参考书目和一本旧百科全书。她在裂开的相片框中发现阿玛拉的日记、一则校园故事、几页诗歌以及原科学楼的素描。这些材料共同补全了缺失的背景信息：学校当年不公开招收女性，所以阿玛拉借用哥哥的名字入学。

管理层担心发现会损害百年庆典。努尔认为，隐瞒真相只会重复当年的不公。她写出一份客观的生平简介，把第一份草稿交给仍健在的校友查看。一名前注册员拿出一本程序手册和阿玛拉的教师执照，两者都证实了这段经历。院长同意为文件认证，导师也认为证据符合资格，可以永久收入档案。

完成的纪录片没有把大学描绘成毫无瑕疵的机构。它讲述了一位坚定的学生如何秘密入学，又如何帮助后来的女性公开求学。首映式上，阿玛拉的孙女把失落的名字重新写回登记簿。全场观众起立致意 - -

不是为了庆祝一个完美的过去，而是为了尊重终于得以恢复的真相。

14. The Equation That Fed a Town (养活一座小镇的方程)

主题：学校教育

目标词：41

Mei' s main subject was engineering, but she chose agriculture as a minor after floods isolated her hometown. When the university announced an interdisciplinary competition, she formed a team and wrote a list of the knowledge they needed: geography to map dry roads, history to locate old storehouses, biology and chemistry to protect food, physics and mechanics to repair vehicles, and electronics to track deliveries. No single textbook volume could solve the whole problem.

The team studied economics, marketing, and accounting because two struggling farm cooperatives were considering a merger. Mei conducted an audit and found that their combined total looked healthy only because both had recorded an identical shipment. She had to subtract it, leaving income minus transport costs. In maths, her model used arithmetic, algebra, and calculus. Demand became a variable, road capacity a parameter, and each delivery route an equation. After paying a small dividend, the remaining remainder had to fund emergency storage.

Professor Arun challenged the team' s logic. Their plan sent double the usual grain to one village, triple the milk to another, and quadruple the medicine to the clinic. An odd result was not necessarily wrong, Mei explained: populations and needs differed. Her decision was rational, not equal for appearance' s sake. Students in sociology interviewed families, while classmates in philosophy debated fairness. A logistics group then tested the route and found one bridge unsafe.

Mei redesigned the vehicle with help from engineering, mechanics, and electronics students, and the first supplies arrived before the next storm. A reporter filmed a reel of the convoy crossing the repaired road. The cooperatives completed their merger and adopted Mei' s transparent records. She had entered the competition hoping for a prize; she left understanding that disciplines mattered most when they worked together for people.

梅的主修科目是工程学，但洪水隔绝家乡后，她选择把农业作为辅修科目。大学宣布举办跨学科竞赛时，她组建团队，并列出一份所需知识清单：用地理学绘制仍然干燥的道路，用历史学寻找旧仓库，用生物学和化学保护食物，用物理学和力学修理车辆，再用电子学追踪运输。任何一本教材卷册都无法单独解决整个问题。

两家经营困难的农业合作社正在考虑合并，团队因此研究了经济学、市场营销和会计学。梅进行一次审计后发现，它们合计的总数之所以看起来不错，只因双方重复记录了一批相同的货物。她必须将其减去，再用收入减去运输成本。在数学模型中，她运用了算术、代数和微积分。需求是变量，道路容量是参数，每条运输路线则是一道方程。支付少量股息后，剩余的余数还要用于建设应急仓库。

阿伦教授质疑团队的逻辑。方案给一个村庄运送平时两倍的粮食，给另一个村庄送去三倍的牛奶，又给诊所提供四倍的药品。梅解释说，奇数的结果未必错误，因为人口与需求本来就不同。她的决定是理性的，而不是为了表面公平。社会学专业的学生采访家庭，哲学专业的同学讨论何为公正。随后，物流学小组测试路线，发现一座桥并不安全。

梅在工程、力学和电子学专业学生的协助下重新设计车辆，第一批物资终于在下一场暴风雨前抵达。记者拍摄了一卷车队驶过修复道路的影像。合作社完成合并，并采用梅制定的透明账目。她参加竞赛时只想获奖，离开时却明白：不同学科共同为人服务时，才能发挥最大的价值。

15. The Purifier That Almost Failed (险些失败的净水器)

主题：学校教育

目标词：41

For the school invention fair, Anya built a purifier from multiple chambers. On her work table, a transparent rectangle held a carbon cube, a hollow glass sphere, and a metal cone. A blue dot marked each inlet. She measured the width, drew a diagonal across the base, and used a circle to show the filter' s full extent. Her data matrix compared flow at every scale, from a fraction of an ounce to the pump' s maximum load.

Her eccentric science teacher insisted that precision mattered. Anya recorded each decimal, percent, proportion, and ratio of clean water to waste. She also checked liquid density, temperature in Fahrenheit, and the battery' s volt reading. The ultraviolet lamp would radiate energy and emit light to kill microbes. Carbon remained chemically inert, an inherent advantage because it would not dissolve, melt, or rust in water.

Minutes before judging, the pump began to shake. Friction heated a pipe, pressure caused water to displace trapped air, and a cracked thermometer released mercury. At the same time, fruit residue began to ferment and produced a noxious smell. A static spark could ignite the gas. Anya shut down the battery, opened the windows, and warned everyone to leave. She did not try to dilute the mercury or wash it away. Instead, the laboratory safety officer sealed the spill, while an ozone monitor confirmed that the air system was working.

The judges postponed the fair rather than disqualify her. Anya replaced the hot pipe, lowered the pump speed, and added a valve for trapped air. A week later, her purifier ran safely and produced the highest share of clean water. She won no prize for appearance, but received the engineering award for recognising failure, protecting others, and improving the design.

评委决定推迟展览，而没有取消她的资格。安雅换掉过热管道，降低水泵速度，又为受困空气增加阀门。一周后，净水器安全运行，产出的净水占比最高。它没有赢得外观奖，却获得了工程奖，因为安雅能够承认失败、保护他人并改进设计。

16. The Footnote She Refused to Hide (她不肯隐瞒的脚注)

主题：学校教育

目标词：41

At the outset of her final semester, engineering student Nia chose a selective elective on low-carbon concrete. The course syllabus made one field assignment a prerequisite for graduation. Nia began with only a rudimentary, elementary understanding of the basic principles of materials, but the wider curriculum had taught her scientific discipline. Her goal was to compose a new formula whose every component would blend waste glass with cement.

Her early results looked profound on the surface, yet she knew an empirical claim required evidence. She would inspect each block, scrutinise every crack, and extract strength data before making a point. Her supervisor would not dictate a conclusion or let any engineering doctrine replace observation. At a student forum, Nia used a short preview to introduce the project and elicit questions. The audience understood the gist, but one listener asked where she had found a striking sentence under the second heading.

Nia discovered that she had copied the sentence into an early draft without quotation marks. She had never meant to plagiarise, but intention did not erase the error. Some classmates urged her to delete it before the final review and presume nobody would notice. Instead, she found the original reference, chose to cite its author, and used a brief quote only where necessary. She then rewrote the surrounding paper in her own words and asked the library to print a similarity report.

Correcting the mistake delayed her dissertation and forced her to revise two chapters. Yet the transparent account strengthened her research. Her final tests showed that the glass mixture reduced waste without weakening the concrete. At graduation, Nia's supervisor praised not only the formula but her decision to expose an uncomfortable footnote. A sound result, Nia learned, depended on honest scholarship as surely as a building depended on its foundations.

17. The Question Behind the Headaches (头痛背后的问题)

主题：学校教育

目标词：41

When students in Room 204 began reporting headaches, most teachers supposed that exam anxiety was responsible. Science student Ravi proposed a different hypothesis: poor ventilation. He did not postulate that the answer was certain or speculate about blame. Instead, he asked the nurse to help diagnose symptoms and designed a survey to inquire when they appeared. One anonymous query asked whether students could perceive any smell before becoming conscious of pain.

Ravi began to observe the room at different hours. A sensor could detect carbon dioxide, but he also had to discern patterns in human reports. He would compare morning and afternoon classes, contrast Room 204 with another room, and mark where their schedules overlapped. One apparent contradiction mattered: headaches were worse on cool days, although heat had seemed the likely cause. Ravi noted every detail and treated each instance as evidence rather than proof.

Using inductive reasoning, he could infer that closed windows increased the risk and deduce that a blocked air duct intensified it. The data seemed to imply a connection, yet the principal deemed the sample too small. Ravi could comprehend that caution, but he continued to insist on an inspection and persist despite a low project grade. His model used the analogy of lungs to illustrate airflow and a smoke test to demonstrate the blockage. The fault finally became manifest when dust blew back into the room.

The school received a safety grant and repaired the duct. Students' feedback confirmed that the headaches stopped. Ravi did not reckon he had proved every cause, nor did he underestimate the nuance of stress and sleep. After he deliberated carefully, he could only conclude that ventilation had been the main factor. That modest conclusion helped resolve the problem - and achieve more than an impressive but unsupported claim ever could.

204教室的学生开始头痛时，多数老师都假设原因是考试焦虑。理科生拉维提出另一项假设：通风不良。他没有假定答案已经确定，也没有推测该责怪谁，而是请校医协助诊断症状，并设计一份调查，询问症状何时出现。其中一个匿名问题问道，学生在意识到疼痛之前，是否能察觉某种气味。

拉维开始在不同时段观察教室。传感器可以检测二氧化碳，他还必须从学生报告中辨别规律。他会比较上午与下午的课堂，将204教室和另一间教室作对照，并标出课程时间发生重叠的地方。有一个明显的矛盾很重要：天气凉爽时头痛反而更严重，尽管高温原本似乎最可疑。拉维记录每个细节，把每个事例视为证据而非定论。

利用归纳的推理，他可以推断关窗会增加风险，并进一步演绎推理出堵塞的风道会加剧问题。数据似乎暗示两者有关，校长却认为样本太小。拉维能够理解这种谨慎，但仍坚持要求检查，并在项目成绩很低的情况下继续坚持。他的模型用肺作类比来说明气流，又通过烟雾测试证明堵塞。灰尘被吹回教室时，故障终于清楚地显现出来。

学校获得一笔安全拨款，修好了风道。学生的反馈证实头痛已经停止。拉维并不认为自己证明了所有病因，也没有低估压力与睡眠之间的微妙细微差别。经过认真深思熟虑，他只能得出结论：通风不良是主要因素。这个克制的结论帮助学校解决问题，并取得了夸张却缺乏依据的主张永远无法取得的成果。

18. The Gizmo Built for Mr Chen (为陈师傅造的小装置)

主题：学校教育 / 科技发明

Lena, a student engineer at Eastport Polytechnic, applied for a design fellowship. She wanted to invent a workshop assistant for Mr Chen, a talented mechanic whose eyesight was failing. Commercial systems cost too much and overestimated what a small garage needed. Lena's foundation was simple: build one versatile device that could read labels, locate tools, and warn of moving machinery.

She began to devise experiments in the college fabrication facility. A tiny microcomputer formed the core, with a keyboard and high-contrast screen as an auxiliary control. For optics, Lena fitted a wide lens; a radar unit measured motion, while an echo sensor detected nearby walls. The software used a secure browser and multimedia instructions. Lena learned to specialise in accessible design without narrowing the machine's uses. She could utilise cheap recycled plastic, a harmless byproduct from a local factory, for each protective accessory.

Mr Chen became the first tester. He called the prototype a clever gizmo, then immediately discovered its biggest flaw: the voice counted every hanging spanner twice. Lena had to count the tools by hand, estimate the error, compute a correction, and gauge whether the warning arrived quickly enough. Rather than hide the failure, she chose to disclose it in her fellowship interview. Her test records revealed that polished metal confused both camera and radar and uncovered a safer solution: coloured rubber sleeves.

Lena learned that to innovate was not merely to assemble impressive parts. It meant entering another person's working domain and understanding the human realm behind a technical problem. She won the fellowship, but her real success came when Mr Chen used the finished device to repair a bicycle independently. He handed it back only once - to add his fingerprint beside hers on the design certificate.

19. The Premiere in the Flooded Cinema (淹水影院里的首映)

主题：科技发明 / 文化历史

Ivo promised to reopen the Orion Cinema for the town's film convention. Its first programme would be a restored science fiction epic called *The Martian Renaissance, a film whose hopeful ideology had inspired his grandfather. Only one damaged tape survived. Ivo had to convert its analogue picture into binary data, restore the audio, and produce a high-definition image without trying to alter the director's original vision.

The building presented a harder challenge. A cracked loudspeaker, rusty microphone, and broken projector gear were obvious. Less visible were blocked drainage, leaking sewage, and poor ventilation. Ivo installed a wireless sound link and an emergency generator. A hydraulic lift became the stage's pivot, allowing scenery to shift between talks. His team built a prototype air system whose filter could purify incoming air, compress coolant, and condense moisture. During each testing phase, they would refine the design and distil complex readings into a simple safety report.

On opening night, a storm flooded the basement. One technician made a wrong connection and the projector entered maintenance mode. Ivo nearly stumbled over a cable while trying to pinpoint the flaw. His contingency plan saved the event: the generator powered pumps, and a second projector carried a precise, colour-correct copy of the film. Volunteers moved the audience upstairs while the new drainage system cleared the water.

The delay lasted twenty minutes. Instead of complaining, guests listened as Ivo explained how restoration could facilitate a meeting between past and present. When the repaired image finally appeared, scratches remained visible; he had preserved them deliberately as part of the film's history. The audience applauded before the first scene ended. The Orion reopened not as a perfect imitation of its former self, but as an old building honestly adapted for a new generation.

伊沃答应在小镇电影大会前重新开放猎户座影院。首场节目是一部经过修复的科幻题材史诗作品《火星文艺复兴》，影片中充满希望的思想观念曾激励他的祖父。如今只剩下一盘受损磁带。伊沃必须把模拟画面转换成二进制的数据，修复音频，并生成高清晰度的图像，同时又不能改变导演原本的构想。

影院建筑更加棘手。破裂的扬声器、生锈的麦克风和损坏的放映机齿轮都很明显；不易察觉的问题则是堵塞的排水系统、渗漏的污水和糟糕的通风。伊沃安装了无线的声音连接和应急发电机。一座液压的升降台成为舞台的枢轴，让布景能在演讲之间转换位置。团队还制造一套空气系统原型，它的过滤器能够净化进入的空气、压缩制冷剂并凝结水分。每个测试阶段，他们都会继续改进设计，并把复杂读数提炼成简明的安全报告。

开幕当晚，暴风雨淹没了地下室。一名技术员接了一处错误的线路，放映机进入维护模式。伊沃寻找精确定位问题缺陷时，险些被电缆绊倒。他的应急方案挽救了活动：发电机为水泵供电，第二台放映机则播放一份色彩准确的、时间定位精确的影片副本。志愿者把观众转移到楼上，新排水系统则迅速排走积水。

放映只推迟了二十分钟。观众没有抱怨，而是听伊沃解释，修复如何促进过去与现在相遇。修复后的画面终于出现时，旧划痕仍清晰可见；他有意保留它们，因为那也是电影历史的一部分。第一个场景尚未结束，观众就响起掌声。猎户座影院并未成为旧日模样的完美复制品，而是以坦诚的方式，让古老建筑适应了新一代人。

20. The Bowl That Wanted to Go Home (想回家的陶碗)

主题：文化历史

目标词：40

Curator Leo was preparing his museum's largest exhibition, a chronology of belief and power. One gallery explained feudalism through the seals of a lord, though the centrepiece was an imperial crown said to have passed from an emperor to a king, then a queen, prince, and princess. Labels addressed each ruler as "Your Majesty." Another room traced an ancient empire through a Buddhist pagoda, a Christian church and cathedral, and portraits of a Pope, bishop, priest, monk, and travelling missionary carrying a Bible. A recording of a children's choir filled the hall.

The final object was a piece of painted pottery. An old catalogue called it "exotic decoration made by an aboriginal tribe," language that treated its maker as almost alien. Anthropologist Mara, herself an inhabitant of the island where it had been found, challenged the display. Her grandmother said the bowl held the community's soul and belonged to a sacred burial ritual. Its rim was engraved with names spoken only on hallowed ground.

Leo argued that his grandfather had helped excavate the site and that he would legally inherit the collection. Mara replied that archaeology did not erase responsibility. Returning the bowl was an ethical obligation, not a favour, and the museum's humanitarian mission meant respecting living people as well as dead rulers. Leo feared losing the exhibition's star object, but he invited island elders to examine the records and follow their own etiquette around the bowl.

The evidence showed it had been removed without consent. Leo returned it and replaced the empty case with a video made by the community. Visitors saw the bowl welcomed home and learned why cultural heritage could not always be owned by whoever held the key to a storeroom. The exhibition became more powerful because one object was absent: its empty space told the truth.

策展人利奥正为他的博物馆筹备规模最大的展览，以年代顺序呈现信仰与权力。一间展厅通过领主的印章解释封建制度，中心展品则是一顶皇家的王冠，据说曾从一位皇帝手中传给一位国王，又传给女王、王子和公主。说明牌一律以“您的陛下”称呼统治者。另一展厅通过一座佛教宝塔、一座基督教教堂和一座大教堂，以及教皇、主教、神父、僧侣和携带《圣经》的旅行传教士画像，讲述一个古老帝国。儿童唱诗班的录音回荡在展厅中。

最后一件展品是一只彩绘陶器。旧目录称它是“某个土著的部落制作的异域的装饰品”，这种语言几乎把制作者当成陌生异类。人类学家玛拉本身就是陶碗出土地岛屿的居民，她对这种展示提出质疑。祖母告诉她，这只碗承载着族群的灵魂，属于一项神圣的葬礼仪式。碗沿雕刻着一些名字，只有在圣洁的土地上才能念出。

利奥辩称，祖父曾协助发掘遗址，自己也将依法继承这批藏品。玛拉回答，考古学不能抹去责任。归还陶碗是一项合乎伦理的义务，而非恩惠；博物馆的人道主义的使命意味着，既要尊重死去的统治者，也要尊重仍然生活着的人。利奥担心失去展览的明星展品，但还是邀请岛上长者查阅记录，并按照他们自己的礼仪接近陶碗。

证据显示，陶碗当年未经同意便被带走。利奥归还了它，用族群制作的视频取代空展柜。参观者看到陶碗回归故乡，也明白了为什么文化遗产并不总该属于那个掌握库房钥匙的人。展览因为一件物品的缺席而更有力量：空出来的位置讲出了真相。

21. The Last Voice of Stone Valley (石谷最后的声音)

主题：文化历史 / 语言演化

After years abroad, Mina grew homesick and returned to Stone Valley. Her grandmother was the last fluent speaker of its dialect and the unofficial guardian of its stories. Some recalled local nobility - a generous lord and a legendary knight - with nostalgia, but Grandmother said ordinary farmers had kept the valley alive through adversity. Their shared experience, not royal background, had allowed the community to thrive during brief years of prosperity and survive every setback.

A television celebrity arrived to record the "last speaker." He treated each painted symbol as a picturesque sign, mistaking a pictograph of grain for decoration and a triangular wedge for a weapon. He even cut a ceremonial knot to display it flat. Mina stopped the filming. She explained that the language's oral tradition could not be understood from objects alone. Her grandmother's handwriting preserved only part of it; voice carried the rest. The archive would preserve every recorded utterance.

Mina, who studied linguistics, began a community dictionary. For every entry she recorded semantic meaning, syntax, and grammar, then described its phonetics. Children learned to pronounce each syllable, distinguish a phoneme, and hear how a vowel differed from a consonant. Mina marked changes in intonation and grammatical inflection, analysed each sentence clause, and explained how a prefix or suffix altered meaning. Where elders used a logogram, she kept the original mark rather than replacing it with an abbreviation.

The celebrity offered money for exclusive recordings, but Grandmother refused. Mina instead trained schoolchildren to interview elders and let every family keep a copy. Within a year, morning announcements included the valley language, and young musicians used it in songs. Grandmother was no longer presented as its final voice. She had become the first teacher of its next generation.

22. The Interpreter Who Stopped a Strike (阻止罢工的口译员)

主题：语言演化 / 娱乐运动

目标词：40

Mina was the youngest correspondent at a city newspaper when a dispute closed the harbour. The dockworkers expected the foreign owners to cut wages; management said that was only a rumour - a claim so complicated that even the official commentary confused readers. Mina noticed that the English noun "adjustment" had been rendered as the harsher local verb "reduce." A singular error had spread through plural copies of a union leaflet.

The editor sent Mina as both reporter and interpreter. At the meeting, she wrote each pronoun, adjective, adverb, preposition, and conjunction on a board to show how the sentence worked. She supplied a neutral synonym for "adjustment" and its antonym, then paraphrased the whole clause. Her explanation illuminated what neither side had managed to decipher. She did not merely translate; she used calm eloquence to narrate how the mistake had travelled.

Arguments continued. A union exponent called the leaflet corporate propaganda, while a management critic accused the press of helping to disseminate panic. Mina proposed a brainstorm rather than another hostile discussion. The chief negotiator accepted her handout, and each side began to communicate its actual needs. Their chief contention proved to be overtime safety, not basic pay. Both sides then agreed to negotiate in good faith.

Outside, an announcer and a television commentator awaited news. Mina acted as messenger, carrying out the signed agreement and a corrected pamphlet. She had anticipated an angry headline; instead, her editor asked her to compile a guide showing journalists how to interpret labour documents. One accurately explained sentence had prevented a strike.

，英语名词“调整”被译成了语气更重的本地语言动词“削减”。一个单数形式的错误，通过工会传单的复数份数迅速扩散。

编辑派米娜同时担任记者和口译员。会上，她把句中的每个代词、形容词、副词、介词和连词写在白板上，说明句子结构。她为“调整”提供了一个中性的同义词和一个反义词，又将整句话换一种说法。她的解释阐明了双方都没能解读清楚的问题。她不只是翻译，还有沉着的口才，讲述误译如何一步步传播。

23. The Orchestra in the Old Cinema (老电影院里的乐团)

主题：娱乐运动

目标词：40

Restoring the abandoned cinema began as Leila's weekend pastime, a form of recreation shared with her grandfather, a retired craftsman. Soon gossip claimed that a developer would demolish it. Although the story was only a rumour, the neighbourhood reached a consensus: they would stage a benefit concert before the sale.

Leila designed a daring programme. A youth orchestra would perform a classical symphony, a ballet dancer would improvise during a solo piano passage, and local bands would mix rock, hip-hop, and pop. During rehearsal, a comic actor tried to imitate the conductor and mimic his stern tone. A screen behind them would simulate the building's former glory through animation, while a short movie would depict its history. Leila firmly rejected an X-rated poster offered as a joke; families, not shock, were the audience.

Every performer found a role. A singer rewrote a lyric to fit the old theatre's story, the brass section brightened the melody, and the drummer steadied its rhythm and tune. A travelling circus lent lights, and a retired actress turned a local tragedy into a brief drama. The event's aesthetic was deliberately simple: Leila chose to opt for handmade scenery and hung her grandfather's portrait in the foyer. Reviewers later struggled to describe its rough but honest beauty.

The final note was recorded on a disc, and the crowded hall fell silent. A wealthy arts patron, fascinated by the performance, offered to buy and preserve the cinema. Its sudden popularity saved it. Leila had not created perfect art, but she had shown what a community could become when it chose imagination over fear.

修复废弃电影院起初只是莱拉周末的消遣，也是她和退休工匠祖父共同参与的娱乐活动。不久，闲谈中传出开发商要拆楼的消息。虽然这只是传言，社区却达成了共识：他们要在出售前举办一场募款音乐会。

莱拉设计了一套大胆的节目单。青年管弦乐团将演奏一首古典 交响曲，一名芭蕾舞演员会在钢琴独奏段落中即兴表演，本地乐队则融合摇滚乐、嘻哈乐和流行乐。彩排时，一位喜剧演员试图模仿指挥的动作，并仿效他严厉的语气。身后的银幕通过动画来模拟建筑昔日的辉煌，一部短电影则描绘它的历史。莱拉坚决不用别人开玩笑送来的限制级海报；他们需要的是家庭观众，而不是靠惊吓吸引人。

每位表演者都有自己的角色。歌手重写一句歌词以配合影院的故事，铜管声部让旋律更加明亮，鼓手则稳住它的节奏和曲调。一个巡演马戏团借来了灯光，退休女演员还把当地一桩悲剧改成短小的戏剧。整场活动的美学风格刻意保持朴素：莱拉决定选择手工布景，并把祖父的肖像挂在门厅。评论者后来发现，那种粗粝而真诚的美很难描述。

最后一个音符被录进一张光盘，拥挤的大厅随即安静下来。一位富有的艺术赞助人被演出深深吸引，提出买下并保存影院。活动骤升的人气拯救了它。莱拉创造的艺术或许并不完美，却让人们看见：当一个社区选择想象力而不是恐惧时，它能够变成什么样子。

24. One Last Lap for Nora (诺拉的最后一圈)

主题：娱乐运动

目标词：40

At sixty-eight, Nora remained an energetic community coach, but a knee injury had ended her vigorous morning cycling. She still opened the gym each day, teaching gentle indoor yoga before leading outdoor exercise. When the council threatened to close the centre, she proposed a sports festival to prove its value.

The programme filled every corner. Retired players tried chess and billiards; children rotated through badminton, tennis, and volleyball. On the field, teams played soccer and hockey, sharing each bat and racket. Nora taught one child to kick without losing balance, another to pitch a ball, and a third to throw and toss safely. At the skating area, beginners learned to glide, skate, and tumble onto padded mats. A winter club even demonstrated how to ski on a short artificial slope. On Fridays, Nora also practised golf with her grandfather.

Local musicians supplied a violin, cello, guitar, harmonica, trumpet, and flute for an improvised parade. Their wealthy patron, however, promised funding only if Nora completed one lap of the cycling track. Spectators objected: the challenge might strain her injured knee. Nora refused to sprawl on the sidelines. She took time to stretch, climbed onto a modified bicycle, and began to pedal.

The reigning youth champion rode beside her, slowing whenever she slowed. At the last bend, Nora's wheel struck a cone and began to flip, but the champion steadied the bicycle before it could knock her down. Every spectator cheered as they crossed together. The patron honoured his promise, yet the greater victory was Nora's: she had shown that a sports centre was not built for champions alone, but for anyone willing to move, learn, and help another person finish.

25. The Clean Trail Challenge (洁净步道挑战)

主题：娱乐运动 / 物品材料

目标词：40

During her vacation, Mei joined a mountain excursion advertised as a relaxed hike and picnic. The guide's long stride soon separated the group: some walkers began to lag, while others wanted to linger beside the river. At the next step, a distracted pedestrian slipped. His backpack took a wild bounce and began to drift toward a ravine until Mei made a quick leap and caught its strap.

The accident exposed a worse problem. Below them lay heaps of garbage, rubbish, trash, and broken camping stuff. Someone had dumped cheap merchandise, a cracked cooking utensil, and even a supposedly ancient artifact that proved to be a crude souvenir. Mei cancelled the planned camp and challenged everyone to clean the trail before sunset. They pitched one tent as a sorting station and used every spare bag in their emergency kit.

The hikers collected litter for reuse, separated useful objects from junk, and kept chemicals away from the stream. They found bottles of detergent, lotion, shampoo, and soap, plus a broken plastic tub. The guide explained that rain could carry these substances into the village sewerage system and eventually to a distant landfill. Cleaning was a necessity, not a pleasant extra. Everyone worked as if completing a marathon: they would climb, jump, and plunge their hands into thorny shrubs, then toss full bags up the slope.

The group missed its evening cruise but gained something better. Their matching cleanup outfit appeared in a local report, and the tour company promised to equip future hikers properly. At the trailhead, Mei looked back while sunlight seemed to glide across the restored river. Their holiday had become tiring, yet every careful step had returned a piece of the mountain to itself.

假期期间，梅参加了一次山区短途旅行，广告称那只是轻松的徒步旅行和野餐。导游迈着很大的步幅，很快拉开队伍：有人开始落后，有人则想在河边逗留。走到下一级台阶时，一名分心的行人滑倒了。他的背包猛地弹起，随后向峡谷边缘漂移；梅迅速跳跃过去，抓住了背带。

这次意外暴露了更严重的问题。下方堆满垃圾、废物、垃圾杂物和损坏的露营物品。有人丢弃了廉价商品、破裂的烹饪器具，甚至还有一件号称古董的人工制品，结果只是做工粗糙的纪念品。梅取消了原定的露营，提议所有人在日落前清理步道。他们支起一顶帐篷作为分类站，用上了应急装备包里的所有备用袋。

徒步者收集散落垃圾以便再次利用，把有用物件和破烂分开，并让化学品远离溪流。他们发现多瓶洗涤剂、护肤液、洗发水和肥皂，还有一个破裂的塑料盆。导游解释，雨水可能把这些物质带进村里的污水处理系统，最终流向远处的垃圾填埋场。清理是一项必需之事，不是可有可无的善举。大家像参加马拉松一样劳动：他们不断攀爬、跳起，把手猛伸入多刺的灌木，再把装满的袋子抛向坡顶。

团队错过了晚间游船，却获得了更珍贵的东西。他们统一的清洁服装出现在地方报道中，旅行公司也承诺为今后的游客提供妥善装备。回到步道入口，梅回头望去，阳光仿佛在恢复清澈的河面上滑过。这个假期很劳累，但每一个谨慎的脚步，都把一小片山野还给了自然。

26. The Archive Before Dawn (黎明前的档案室)

主题：物品材料

目标词：40

On her first night as museum archivist, Sara heard water running. A pipe above the records room had burst near a tap, soaking a rug, a display mattress, and every protective pad and sheet beneath them. She pulled the electrical plug, checked the fuse, and kept water away from a loose cable and cord. Then she used a sponge, towel, bucket, and an old wooden barrel to control the leak.

The emergency threatened the museum's paper collection: a painter's portfolio, a rare paperback, a political pamphlet, and the only signed memorandum from the town's founder. Sara laid out dry stationery, a bottle of archival ink, and a block of rubber for making seals. She used a single staple only on modern copies, never on originals. Since the copier could not Xerox wet pages, she photographed each document and made a digital duplicate.

At midnight, smoke curled from the storeroom. One strand of wire had touched the metal edge of a cabinet. Sara struck a match to light a candle only after cutting the power, then opened a shutter and removed the cracked window pane. Its unusual opacity had hidden the smoke. With a razor and heavy shears, she cut damaged packing material from the rim of a case.

By dawn, each rescued object carried a numbered tag and accurate label. Sara wore her staff badge while a plumber tightened a bolt and replaced the broken knob. The director praised no single heroic element; preparation had been the decisive factor. Sara's careful choices, from switching off a fuse to recording every object, had saved a century of memory.

27. The Bellmaker's Last Order (铸钟匠的最后一份订单)

主题：物品材料

目标词：40

Elias ran an old forge beside a water mill. When the town commissioned a memorial bell, he promised his late father that he would cast it by hand. He first used an iron pail to carry sand from the casting pit. On a high shelf, he arranged samples of metal - iron, brass, bronze, and a new alloy - while his daughter Mara recorded each trial with a camera under a bright spotlight.

The first casting failed. A broken bulb hid a crack, and the lifting ladder caught on a hurdle beside the fence. Elias sat on a wooden stool, ready to quit. Mara opened a drawer containing his father's notes. They explained how to lubricate the mould's pedal mechanism and balance the furnace with a portable air pump. After clearing dust with a vacuum, they tried again. A small fridge stood beside the workshop sink.

They built the mould from lumber, cement, lime, and plaster. Mara stretched canvas around it and covered nearby tools with plastic. For protective clothing, neighbours helped weave strong linen and cotton fabric, then knit cuffs reinforced with nylon. A storm began, so everyone arrived carrying an umbrella or wearing a raincoat. Even the harbour crew lent a small dredge to remove mud blocking the millrace.

Near dawn, the molten bronze filled the mould. Mara pressed the pedal, and the machinery held steady. When they finally raised the bell, morning light caught a tiny crystal embedded in its surface. Elias chose not to polish it away. At the dedication, the bell's clear note crossed the valley. The flaw did not weaken the sound; it made the town's last handmade bell unmistakably its own.

28. The Dress That Refused to Lie (不肯说谎的礼服)

主题：物品材料 / 时尚潮流

目标词：40

Young designer Anika was invited to a luxury fashion show whose popularity could launch her career. The current vogue favoured extravagant gowns, so the sponsor demanded that she adorn her model with jewellery, a large gem, and carved jade. He also supplied an “exquisite” imported pigment and dye. Anika soon discovered that every item was counterfeit: the stones were fake, the cloth inferior, and the colour unsafe.

The sponsor insisted that appearances should prevail. He wanted her to embellish the lie, embroider his logo across the skirt, and hide the model's face beneath a veil. “People want an icon, not a lecture,” he said, pointing to a famous idol on the poster. Anika knew the publicity was available to her only if she obeyed. Instead, she turned the evening into a masquerade of truth.

She created a miniature version of the false gown and displayed it beside laboratory results. Her real costume was a decent, durable dress made by local workers. Its only ornament was recycled glass, and careful hairstyling replaced expensive cosmetics. The model, a handsome dancer with natural grace and elegance, looked both charming and pretty without pretending to be someone else. The sponsor called the honest design ugly. After the exhibition, she returned the restored dress to the museum wardrobe.

For a moment the hall was silent. Then buyers began photographing the labels and asking where the local dress would be sold. Its overall simplicity fascinated them more than the glittering fraud. Anika lost her sponsor but won orders from ethical shops. By refusing to decorate a lie, she began a fashion career she could be proud to wear.

年轻设计师安妮卡受邀参加一场奢华的时装秀；这场活动的人气足以开启她的事业。当时的流行风尚偏爱铺张的礼服，赞助人便要求她用珠宝首饰、一颗大宝石和雕刻玉石来装饰

模特。他还提供了号称“精美的”进口颜料和染料。安妮卡很快发现所有物品都是仿冒品：宝石是假的，布料劣质，颜色也不安全。

赞助人坚持让外表占上风。他要她美化谎言，在裙子上刺绣自己的标志，并用面纱遮住模特的脸。“人们想看的是偶像人物，不是听课。”他说着，指向海报上的著名偶像。安妮卡明白，只有服从，自己才能获得这些可得到的宣传机会。她却决定把当晚变成一场揭露真相的化装舞会。

她制作了一件假礼服的微型版本，把它与实验报告并列展出。她真正的演出服是一件由本地工人制作、得体而耐用的连衣裙。唯一的饰品是再生玻璃，精心设计的发型取代了昂贵化妆品。模特是一位英俊的舞者，带着天生的风度与优雅；无须假扮别人，他依然显得迷人而漂亮。赞助人却骂这件诚实的设计丑陋。

展览结束后，她把修复好的裙子送回博物馆的衣柜。

大厅一时寂静无声。随后，买家纷纷拍摄标签，询问哪里能买到这件本地礼服。它整体上的简洁比闪亮的骗局更令他们着迷。安妮卡失去了赞助人，却赢得了重视道德的商店订单。因为拒绝装点谎言，她开启了一份真正可以自豪地“穿在身上”的时尚事业。

29. The Purple Ribbon (紫色缎带)

主题：时尚潮流

目标词：40

Before the winter pageant, costume assistant Lian discovered that the leading actress's gown had vanished. In its place lay a torn robe, a brown sweater, and a note demanding money. The thief had left muddy stains on a white jacket and a dark blot on a yellow skirt. A slender thread of purple velvet caught in the door's clasp gave Lian her first clue.

She followed scraps past the dressing rooms: a pink ribbon near a wardrobe, one glass bead beside a purse, and a bent pin under a hat with a wide brim. Backstage, an anxious dancer wore jeans, while the stage manager pulled on trousers, one sock, and a single slipper in his rush. Nobody had seen the gown, although a guard remembered someone hiding beneath a cloak, with a scarf wrapped above its collar.

Lian found the missing costume in the laundry, not with a criminal. An elderly tailor had taken it after its shoulder strap snapped. He had added a hidden patch, repaired every stitch, replaced torn lace, and attached a new silver bracelet as decoration. The suspicious velvet thread came from his worktable; the ransom note was merely a prop from another play. His glove, cap, and tan apron had made him look like the cloaked stranger on a dim security camera.

There was barely time to wrap the actress in her costume. Lian tightened a loose stripe of textile, fastened the gown, and sent her onstage. The dress fitted perfectly - not too tight - and the repaired shoulder held. After the applause, Lian apologised to the tailor. He gave her the purple ribbon, reminding her that evidence must be sewn into a whole story before anyone is accused.

冬季庆典开始前，服装助理莲发现女主角的礼服不见了。原处只剩一件破损的长袍、一件棕色毛衣和一张索要钱财的纸条。小偷在一件白色夹克上留下泥渍，又在一条黄色裙子上留下深色污点。门的搭扣上挂着一根纤细的紫色天鹅绒线，成为莲的第一条线索。

她沿着碎屑走过化妆间：衣柜旁有一条粉色缎带，手提包旁有一颗玻璃珠子，宽帽檐的帽子下面还有一枚弯曲的别针。后台，一名焦急的舞者穿着牛仔裤，舞台经理匆忙间套上长

裤、一只袜子和一只拖鞋。没有人见过礼服，不过保安记得有人藏在斗篷下，并用围巾遮住了衣领上方。

莲最终在洗衣房找到了礼服，但那里没有罪犯。一位老裁缝发现礼服肩部带子断裂，便把它拿走修补。他加上隐蔽的补丁，修好每一道针脚，换掉撕裂的蕾丝，还系上一只新银手镯作为装饰。可疑的天鹅绒线来自他的工作台；勒索信其实只是另一出戏的道具。他的手套、便帽和棕褐色围裙，让昏暗监控中的他看起来像那个披斗篷的陌生人。

时间只够把服装迅速裹在女演员身上。莲拉紧一条松脱的条纹布料，扣好礼服，送她登台。衣服十分合身，并不太紧，修好的肩部也稳稳撑住。掌声过后，莲向裁缝道歉。老人把紫色缎带送给她，提醒她：证据必须先缝合成完整的故事，才能指控任何人。

30. Supper for an Unexpected Guest (为不速之客准备的晚餐)

主题：时尚潮流 / 饮食健康

目标词：40

Chef Omar had to cater a diplomatic banquet in the college refectory, but a storm delayed the food truck. His remaining provisions were slight: one edible mushroom basket, vegetables, and an old family recipe. Worse, the guest of honour was a vegetarian gourmet with little appetite after travelling.

Omar rejected the easy option of ordering takeaway. He prepared a small appetiser, then turned the mushrooms into a rich main dish and baked a fruit treat for supper. Students arranged every tray with silver cutlery: a fork, spoon, and polished knife. They borrowed a porcelain bowl, ceramic saucer, and sturdy mug from the art department. In the kitchen, a cracked pot stood near the old furnace; Omar moved it to the oven, covered it with a lid, and let the sauce deepen.

For refreshment, he served fruit juice, soda, and coffee. The organiser had requested liquor, including whisky and brandy, but Omar discovered that the guest avoided alcohol and tobacco. He replaced both with a fragrant spiced beverage. A hungry guard received a quick snack while everyone waited.

The guest arrived wearing an elegant overall beneath a raincoat and smiled at the modest table. She tasted the meal slowly, then asked for the recipe. Omar admitted how close the banquet had come to failure. "Good hospitality is not measured by abundance," she said. "It is measured by attention." Her praise restored the exhausted chef's appetite, and the storm-bound college shared the finest simple supper it could make.

厨师奥马尔要在学院食堂为一场外交宴会承办餐饮，暴风雨却延误了食品车。他剩下的食物储备十分少：只有一篮可食用的蘑菇、一些蔬菜和一道祖传食谱。更糟的是，主宾是一位旅途后毫无食欲的素食者兼美食家。

奥马尔没有选择简单订购外卖。他先做了一小份开胃菜，再把蘑菇制成浓郁的主菜，并为晚餐烤制水果甜点。学生把每个托盘都摆上银制餐具：一把叉子、一把勺子和擦亮的餐刀。

。他们从艺术系借来一只瓷制碗、一个陶制茶碟和结实的马克杯。厨房里，一口裂开的锅靠近旧炉子；奥马尔把食物移入烤箱，盖上盖子，让酱汁逐渐浓郁。

作为茶点饮料，他准备了水果果汁、汽水和咖啡。组织者原本要求提供烈酒，包括威士忌和白兰地，奥马尔却发现客人不饮酒，也远离烟草。他便以芬芳的香料饮料代替。等待期间，一名饥饿的保安还得到了一份快捷小吃。

客人到达时，雨衣下面穿着优雅的罩衣。她看着朴素餐桌微笑，慢慢品尝食物，随后索要食谱。奥马尔坦言宴会差点失败。“真正的待客之道不以丰盛衡量，”她说，“而在于用心。”她的赞美也恢复了疲惫厨师的食欲；被暴风雨困住的学院，共享了他们所能做出的最美好简餐。

31. The Harvest Table (丰收长桌)

主题：饮食健康

目标词：40

When floodwater isolated Greenbank Farm, twelve schoolchildren were stranded there overnight. Farmer Rosa had expected to reap wheat and corn, not feed a class, yet she refused to let anyone go hungry. She showed them the livestock, then explained that the dairy supplied milk, cheese, and butter, while meat such as beef, pork, and sausage would remain frozen for another day.

The children turned dinner into a rescue project. One team harvested tomato, cabbage, turnip, and radish for soup and salad. They learned to peel roots, strip damaged leaves, and remove the hull from grain. Beside the pond, Rosa used a fishing rod to catch nothing at all, so everyone laughed and returned to the kitchen.

Another team sorted fruit: cherry, berry, grape, papaya, pear, plum, orange, melon, and kiwi. They crushed the soft pieces into a sweet paste for pudding, while firmer slices topped a pie. The youngest children spread butter on each biscuit and built a giant sandwich. Older pupils made pasta and spaghetti, then shaped spare dough into a simple pizza. One boy requested a hamburger, but cheerfully accepted the vegetable feast instead.

By evening, the flood had not fallen, but fear had. The children carried every dish to one long table in the barn. Rosa worried that the meal looked untidy; their teacher saw something else - a harvest shared fairly, with no ingredient wasted. When rescuers arrived, the children asked to finish dinner first. They left the next morning knowing that a farm was more than a place that produced food: in a crisis, it could become a generous home.

孩子们把准备晚餐变成了一项自救任务。一队采摘番茄、卷心菜、芜菁和萝卜，用来做汤和沙拉。他们学着给根茎削皮、剥去坏叶，并去掉谷物的外壳。在池塘边，罗莎用钓鱼竿尝试捕鱼，却一条也没钓到；大家笑过之后又回到厨房。

另一队整理水果：樱桃、浆果、葡萄、木瓜、梨、李子、橙子、甜瓜和猕猴桃。他们把柔软的果肉压成甜糊，用来制作布丁，较硬的果片则铺在馅饼上。年纪最小的孩子在每块饼干上抹黄油，又做了一个巨大的三明治。大孩子制作意大利面食和细面条，再把剩余面团做成简易比萨饼。一个男孩想吃汉堡包，但最后也开心地接受了蔬菜大餐。

夜幕降临时，洪水没有退，恐惧却消失了。孩子们把每道菜端到谷仓里的一张长桌上。罗莎担心饭菜看起来杂乱；老师看到的却是另一番景象 - - 收获被公平分享，没有任何食材遭到浪费。救援人员到达时，孩子们请求先吃完晚餐。第二天早晨离开时，他们明白了：农场不只是生产食物的地方；危急时刻，它也能成为一个慷慨的家。

32. The Kitchen Built in a Day (一天建成的厨房)

主题：饮食健康 / 建筑场所

目标词：40

Maya planned to establish a community kitchen beside the town's oldest landmark. On opening morning, an inspector declared the temporary structure unsafe: workers had begun its erection on a soft site, and stacked boxes obstructed the exit. Maya had one day to construct a stronger frame. Volunteers brought steel, tested its stability, and moved the festival to a nearby venue while repairs continued.

To keep the crowd cheerful, Maya invited children to cook. They mixed chocolate, vanilla, sugar, and a pinch of salt, then stirred the batter and began to bake. For lunch, adults prepared ginger, scallion, mustard, wasabi, and every fragrant spice they could find. Each ingredient went into a labelled bowl. One team made tomato sauce and ketchup; another let beans soak before cooking.

The tasting table offered sweet, sour, bitter, and spicy dishes. A child called the noodles yummy, then became thirsty and asked for water. Another carefully licked melting ice cream from a spoon, choosing chocolate over vanilla. Maya cut each cake slice evenly and handed out fruit candy and mint gum. She explained that vivid flavour did not require too much sugar and that a vitamin supplement could not replace food the body could properly digest.

At sunset, the inspector returned. The exit was clear, the steel frame secure, and the kitchen ready. Maya expected praise for the building, but he pointed to the crowded tables instead. The real landmark, he said, was not the new structure; it was the trust created when neighbours solved a problem and shared a meal.

33. The House that Opened Its Doors (敞开大门的老宅)

主题：建筑场所

After an earthquake forced hundreds of families to migrate from the mountains, architect Mei Chen was asked to locate a safe temporary home for them. She chose Alder House, an empty mansion situated beyond the city's last skyscraper. It had once been a merchant's villa, then a youth hostel, while the gatekeeper still continued to reside in a tiny lodge. Mei hoped that twenty families could inhabit the building until each received a permanent dwelling. Others would use a wooden cabin and a garden shed as classrooms. The house, local people said, was the cradle of the town's first public library.

Mei mapped every room on a square grid. From the stone porch, a wide aisle led across the lobby to a long corridor. One branch ended at the living room and the old parlour, where a cracked fireplace faced a cold radiator. Another led to the kitchen, its empty cabinet, a small lavatory, and a separate toilet. Upstairs, she tested each stair of the main staircase, gripping the loose handrail. There was no escalator, of course, but the children laughed when the caretaker described the moving stairs in the city mall.

That evening, rain entered beneath the eaves and soaked a damaged roof beam. Water ran down a marble pillar and a wooden column, then through a thin layer of plaster. When part of the ceiling fell, it blocked the passage to the cellar, where medicine had been stored beneath a brick vault. Mei crawled through a narrow arch and found that the beam beside the chimney was beginning to split. If it failed, the whole western wing could collapse while the refugees slept.

Mei cancelled the move-in and called local carpenters. They reinforced the beam, repaired the roof, and reopened the cellar before dawn. Two days later, the families entered safely. Children filled the former parlour with books, and meals steamed in the kitchen again. Alder House had been built for one wealthy family, but in its most important season, it became a home for many.

地震迫使数百户家庭从山区迁移后，建筑师陈梅受命寻找一个安全的临时住所。她选中了奥尔德老宅；这座空置的宅邸坐落于城市最后一栋摩天大楼之外。它最初是商人的别墅，后来改成青年旅舍，守门人则仍然居住在一间小门房里。梅希望二十户家庭能够暂时居住在楼内，直至每户都获得永久住所。花园中的木制小屋和棚屋则可作为教室。当地人说，这栋房子还是本镇第一所公共图书馆的发源地。

梅用方形网格标出了每个房间。从石砌门廊进入后，一条宽阔的通道穿过门厅，连接一条长长的走廊。其中一个分支通往客厅和旧日的会客室，那里一座开裂的壁炉正对着冰冷的暖气片。另一条路通向厨房、空置的橱柜、一间小盥洗室以及独立的厕所。上楼时，她紧握松动的扶手，逐一检查主楼梯上的每一级台阶。这里当然没有自动扶梯，但当管理员描述城市商场里会移动的楼梯时，孩子们都笑了起来。

当天傍晚，雨水从屋檐下渗入，浸湿了一根受损的屋顶横梁。水沿着一根大理石支柱和一根木制立柱流下，又穿过薄薄一层灰泥。部分天花板坠落后，通往地窖的道路被堵住；药品就存放在地窖的砖砌拱顶下。梅从一道狭窄的拱门爬过去，发现烟囱旁的横梁正在开裂。如果它断掉，难民睡觉时整座西翼都可能坍塌。

梅取消了当晚的入住安排，并召集当地木匠。他们加固横梁、修复屋顶，在黎明前重新打通了地窖。两天后，各户家庭安全入住。孩子们在昔日的会客室里摆满书籍，厨房里也重新升起饭菜的热气。奥尔德老宅本是为一个富裕家庭修建的，但在它最重要的时刻，却成了许多人的家。

34. The Night Shift at Harbour Mall (海港商场的夜班)

主题：建筑场所

目标词：40

When a cyclone approached Port Ellis, the council chose its largest mall as an emergency shelter. The spacious building contained a department store, a supermarket, a public bath, and even a closed casino. It stood on the peripheral edge of town, near a viaduct whose longest span crossed the river. Because no other shelter existed in the vicinity, engineer Sofia Reyes had one night to make the building safe for two thousand people.

Her inspection exposed trouble everywhere. A void beneath the entrance plaza had weakened its tile surface, and rain had damaged the surrounding brickwork. A veteran mason began filling the gap while Sofia examined the mall's layout. The exterior looked solid, but an external drain drove water inward through the wall. In the interior, the inner fire doors no longer formed an airtight barrier. Beyond the windows stretched an expanse of black water, already rising toward the road.

Workers erected a scaffold so they could mend the drain and modify its angle. Sofia told one team to plumb a new pipe and install a pump; correct placement was essential. Another team used each screw, lever, and hook carefully while they tried to fix the doors. Above them, a crane lifted a steel brace with its suspension cable. Then the machine suffered a malfunction. The brace swung into the wall, damaging the emergency power apparatus and threatening the town's water infrastructure controls inside the mall.

Sofia stopped the crane and changed the plan. The crew lowered the brace by hand, then welded it across two supports. Electricians repaired the apparatus, and plumbers diverted the leak. They worked until dawn not only to restore the building but also to maintain its pumps throughout the storm. Minutes before the first families arrived, the final door sealed properly. The cyclone flooded the plaza and closed the viaduct, but the shelter remained dry. What had seemed like an ordinary shopping centre became the safest place in Port Ellis.

飓风逼近埃利斯港时，市政委员会选择当地最大的购物中心作为应急避难所。这座宽敞的建筑内有一家百货商店、一家超级市场、一处公共浴室，甚至还有一家已经停业的赌场。它位于城镇外围的边缘，靠近一座横跨河流的高架桥，桥梁最长的跨度就在河面上方。由于附近地区没有其他避难场所，工程师索菲娅·雷耶斯只有一夜时间让这栋建筑足以安全容纳两千人。

检查很快暴露出各处的问题。入口广场下方的一个空洞削弱了地面的瓷砖，雨水也破坏了周围的砖砌结构。一位经验丰富的泥瓦匠开始填补缺口，索菲娅则检查商场的布局。建筑外部看似坚固，但一条外接的排水管却把水向内引进了墙体。在内部空间里，内侧的防火门也已无法形成密封的屏障。窗外是一片广阔的黑色水域，已经开始逼近道路。

工人们搭起脚手架，以便修补排水管并调整其角度。索菲娅让一组人铺设管道并安装新水泵；设备的正确安放位置至关重要。另一组人谨慎使用每一枚螺钉、每一根杠杆和每一个吊钩，努力修好防火门。头顶上方，一台起重机正用悬吊钢索吊起钢制支撑架。突然，机器发生故障。支撑架撞上墙壁，不仅损坏了应急供电设备，还威胁到设在商场内的城镇供水基础设施控制装置。

索菲娅叫停起重机并改变方案。工人们用手放下支撑架，随后把它焊接在两个支点之间。电工修复设备，水管工则把漏水改道。他们一直工作到黎明，不仅恢复了建筑功能，还要在整场风暴中维护水泵运行。第一批家庭抵达前几分钟，最后一扇门终于严密闭合。飓风淹没了广场，也封闭了高架桥，但避难所始终保持干燥。这个原本普通的购物中心，最终成了埃利斯港最安全的地方。

35. The Parade on Mercury Road (水星路上的游行)

主题：建筑场所 / 交通旅行

目标词：40

Retired airline captain David Okoro had spent thirty years in aviation, yet one flight continued to haunt him. His closest friend had died when their airplane became a wreck in the desert. Now David led an annual memorial parade to a stone pyramid built for the lost crew. This year, a restored cockpit would travel on a wagon, while a folded parachute rested on a display rack beside it.

David planned the route with an old atlas and gave every driver an itinerary. The procession would leave the museum garage, pass one busy intersection, follow a narrow lane, and stop beside the monument. A tram, a delivery van, a wooden cart, and a flower-covered pedicab joined the line. A local safari company supplied the towing vehicle, an auto with enough horsepower for the heavy wagon. Before departure, David checked its internal brakes, every wheel, and each tyre. He also marked a safe path around roadworks where workers were preparing to pave a damaged street.

At noon, dense traffic delayed the parade. A fallen signpost forced David to navigate toward the curb, but then the towing vehicle's steering locked. The driver sounded the honk as the wagon rolled downhill toward the crowded intersection. If it struck the tram, the impact could crush both the cockpit and the people beside it. David climbed into the cab, released a jammed cable, and turned the wagon into an empty freight yard. A freight truck blocked his escape, so he guided the wheels through a gate barely wider than the vehicle. For several seconds, the cockpit seemed to vanish behind a cloud of dust.

When the dust cleared, the wagon had stopped safely against a sand bank. No one was injured, though the axle required repair. The safari company brought another vehicle, and the procession reached the memorial before sunset. David placed his friend's name beneath the pyramid and understood why the parade mattered: it did not erase the old disaster, but it carried memory forward without allowing grief to control the road ahead.

退休的航空公司机长戴维·奥科罗在航空业工作了三十年，但其中一次飞行仍然不断困扰着他。他最亲密的朋友在他们的飞机于沙漠中化为残骸时遇难。如今，戴维每年都会带领一场纪念游行，前往一座为遇难机组人员修建的石制金字塔。今年，经过修复的驾驶舱将由一辆四轮货车运送，旁边的展示架上还放着一具折叠好的降落伞。

戴维利用一本旧地图册规划路线，并给每位驾驶员发了一份行程安排。队伍将从博物馆车库出发，经过一个繁忙的十字路口，沿一条狭窄的车道前行，最后停在纪念碑旁。一辆有轨电车、一辆送货厢式货车、一辆木制手推车和一辆饰满鲜花的三轮车也加入队伍。当地一家野外观光公司提供了牵引车辆——一辆拥有足够马力拖动沉重货车的汽车。出发前，戴维检查了车辆的内部制动装置、每个车轮以及每条轮胎。他还在道路施工区域旁标出一条安全通道；工人们正在那里准备铺设受损路面。

中午，拥挤的交通耽误了游行。一块倒下的路标迫使戴维把队伍引导到路缘旁，但牵引车的转向装置突然卡死。货车沿坡道滑向人群密集的十字路口时，司机不断按响喇叭。如果它撞上有轨电车，冲击力可能会压碎驾驶舱，并伤及旁边的人。戴维爬进驾驶室，松开一根卡住的钢索，将货车转入一处空置的货运场。一辆货运卡车挡住了出口，于是他让车轮穿过一道仅比车身稍宽的大门。有几秒钟，驾驶舱仿佛在尘土中消失了。

尘埃散去后，人们发现货车已经安全停在沙堆旁。没有人受伤，只是车轴需要修理。野外观光公司派来另一辆车，游行队伍终于在日落前抵达纪念碑。戴维把朋友的名字放在金字塔下，也明白了这场游行的意义：它无法抹去昔日的灾难，却能把记忆继续传递下去，不让悲伤控制前方的道路。

36. The Last Mail Steamer (最后一班邮轮)

主题：交通旅行 / 国家政府

目标词：40

At dawn, Mara was due to embark on a passenger liner, but a radio message changed her plan. A small mail steamer had struck a hidden hazard outside the harbour channel. Its elderly seaman reported that the vessel might soon submerge. Mara, the harbour engineer, ran along the dock and ordered a rescue boat to lift its anchor. On the wet deck, she checked the engine's turbine and propeller, while two volunteers tied a raft and a canoe to the stern. They also loaded an extra oar in case the motor failed.

The rescue had to depart before the morning lull in the storm expired. However, a freight locomotive had derailed beside the railroad, blocking the road to the fuel depot. Workers crossed a drainage ditch, entered an old underground maintenance tunnel, and carried fuel cans through a closed subway station. The accident caused a serious delay. Officials suggested they postpone the mission or defer it until daylight, but Mara knew that waiting would speed the damaged ship's sinking. Its downward velocity was already increasing.

When the rescue boat reached the steamer, Mara found more than sailors aboard. The hold contained every package of postal ballots for an island election. Each sack bore an official stamp, and the captain had promised to deliver the mail before noon. The waterlogged cargo was a heavy burden, so the crews used ropes to transfer it onto the raft. Mara then used a portable antenna to transmit the vote records ashore while the physical ballots remained in transit.

The election mattered because the island council was debating socialism after years of studying Marxism. Mara supported neither side publicly; she cared that citizens, not the sea, should decide. Minutes after everyone climbed aboard the rescue boat, the steamer disappeared beneath the waves. The ballots arrived late but intact, and the council extended the deadline. For Mara, the successful rescue proved that transport was not merely about machines: sometimes a working route protected democracy itself.

黎明时分，玛拉原本准备登上一艘客运班轮，但一则无线电消息改变了她的计划。一艘小型邮政汽船撞上了港口航道外一处隐蔽的危险物。船上一名年长的海员报告说，这艘船只很快可能会沉入水中。身为港口工程师的玛拉沿着码头跑去，命令救援艇起锚。她在湿滑的甲板上检查发动机的涡轮机和螺旋桨，两名志愿者则把一只木筏和一艘独木舟系在船尾，并装上一支备用船桨，以防发动机失灵。

救援艇必须在风暴早晨的短暂平静期结束前出发。然而，一辆货运机车在铁路旁脱轨，堵住了通往燃料库的道路。工人越过一条排水沟，进入旧的地下维修隧道，又穿过一座关闭的地铁站搬运燃料罐。这场事故造成了严重延误。官员建议推迟任务，或者把行动延期至天亮，但玛拉知道，等待会加速受损船只下沉，其下降速度已经越来越快。

救援艇抵达汽船时，玛拉发现船上不只有水手。货舱中装着海岛选举的每一件邮寄选票包裹。每个邮袋都有官方邮戳，船长曾承诺在中午前送达这些邮件。浸水的货物成了沉重的负担，船员使用绳索将其转移到木筏上。随后，玛拉用便携式天线把投票记录传送到岸上，而纸质选票仍在运输途中。

这次选举十分重要，因为岛上议会在研究多年马克思主义后，正就社会主义展开辩论。玛拉没有公开支持任何一方；她在意的是，决定应由公民作出，而不是由大海替他们决定。所有人登上救援艇几分钟后，汽船便没入海浪。选票虽然迟到，却完好无损，议会也延长了截止时间。对玛拉而言，这场成功的救援证明，交通运输不只是机器运转；有时，一条畅通的路线本身也在守护民主。

37. The Mayor's Empty Chair (市长的空椅子)

主题：国家政府

目标词：40

When Leila became mayor of Greypoint, the old political regime had just fallen. The national government promised democracy, yet the town hall still obeyed a rigid hierarchy and a suffocating bureaucracy. Department heads guarded their power, while families in the riverside slum lacked clean water and basic public service. Leila, an egalitarian teacher who distrusted both privilege and crude materialism, hung neither a party flag nor a victory banner in her office. Instead, she placed an empty chair beside her desk as a reminder of citizens who had no voice.

Her first test came when the waste plant suffered a reactor meltdown. A foreign consortium offered money to rebuild it, but demanded the right to dominate the harbour for thirty years. Its lobbyists tried to influence every municipal bureau. The national premier remained publicly neutral, while his secretary quietly urged Leila to accept. In the capital, parliament and the senate arranged a joint conference. At the opening meeting, Leila faced an overseas delegation whose leader spoke like a great statesman but refused to reveal the contract's risks.

Leila proposed a bilateral review by local scientists and the investor's engineers. She turned the sports arena into a public hearing hall and invited residents to question both sides. The debate uncovered plans to move toxic waste to a former island colony, where migrant workers had little legal protection. Many had wanted to emigrate in search of liberty and refuge from poverty. Greypoint's citizens rejected a prosperity built on their suffering.

The consortium withdrew, and the premier expected Leila's political reign to end. Newspapers called her a powerless puppet who had abandoned a golden crown. Yet local engineers designed a safer plant, funded by transparent taxes. On its opening day, children placed a green wreath on the empty chair. Leila joked that she owned no throne anyway. Her refusal had cost the town a quick solution, but it restored trust: government, people learned, could be firm without becoming secretive or cruel.

38. A Vote for Belonging (关于归属的一票)

主题：国家政府

目标词：40

The Hill House had once provided temporary asylum to refugees; now its diverse population wanted it to become a permanent community centre. A demographic survey showed residents from several ethnic groups: a Jewish baker, an Arabian nurse, a Portuguese carpenter, and families with Roman, Spanish, Swiss, Greek, Italian, and other European roots. An elderly teacher even kept his grandfather's Soviet passport beside a book of Latin poems. They were not one clan, but they had learned to live in harmony.

When the council offered residents a voting franchise, every adult was entitled to choose the building's future. Mira, the youngest respondent in an earlier poll, was nominated to organise the ballot. Her practical checklist covered registration, wheelchair access, translators, and a clear rule of succession if the elected chair resigned. The council's guideline required political neutrality, while Mira added one personal ethic: no speaker could insult another person's origin.

Two plans emerged. A developer's proposal promised luxury flats and gave a strong hint of profit. The residents' plan would implement language classes, childcare, and a clinic to improve everyone's well-being. From the developer's perspective, the old house was wasted property. His lawyer expressed the same viewpoint, while the council's financial standpoint remained cautious. Mira's outlook was more hopeful: with steady support, she believed local businesses would flourish, giving the district a better prospect than another gated tower.

On voting day, independent observers came to monitor the boxes. When the count ended, Mira stood on the steps to proclaim that the community plan had won. The mayor rose to affirm the result. Some residents cried, not because a building had been saved, but because their equal right to decide had finally been recognised. Months later, Hill House opened its clinic and classrooms. Its many languages still filled the corridors, yet difference no longer seemed like evidence that its residents belonged elsewhere; it was proof of what they had built together.

市议会赋予居民投票选举权后，每个成年人都有权选择这座建筑的未来。在先前一次民意调查中，米拉是最年轻的受访者，随后又被提名负责组织投票。她那张务实的核对清单涵盖选民登记、无障碍通道、翻译人员，以及当选主席辞职时明确的继任规则。市议会的指导原则要求保持政治中立，米拉又加入了一条个人道德准则：任何发言者都不得侮辱他人的出身。

最终出现了两个方案。开发商的提议承诺建造豪华公寓，并强烈暗示项目能够获利。居民方案则会实施语言课程、儿童照护和诊所，以改善每个人的福祉。从开发商的视角看，这座老房子是被浪费的地产；他的律师表达了同样的观点，而市议会从财政立场出发，仍然保持谨慎。米拉的看法更加乐观：她相信，只要获得稳定的支持，本地企业就会蓬勃发展，让这个街区拥有比另一座封闭式高楼更好的前景。

投票当天，独立观察员前来监督票箱。计票结束后，米拉站在台阶上宣布社区方案获胜，市长随后起身确认结果。一些居民流下眼泪，并不只是因为一座建筑得以保留，更因为他们平等作出决定的权利终于得到承认。几个月后，希尔之家开设了诊所和教室。走廊里依然回响着多种语言，但差异不再说明这里的居民属于别处，而成为他们共同建设家园的证明。

39. The Grocer Who Kept the Lights On (让店铺灯火不灭的杂货商)

主题：国家政府 / 社会经济

目标词：40

Arun, an Indian merchant, ran a neighbourhood retail grocery in Melbourne, Australia. His shelves reflected years of international trade: honey from New Zealand, tea from Britain, jam from France, and biscuits from Germany. Then a global financial crisis struck. The local economy entered a recession, wholesale prices rose with inflation, and customers began to spend less. Arun's daily revenue and gross sales started to dwindle, leaving a growing budget deficit.

His latest shipment brought an unpleasant surprise. A new tariff, customs duty, and emergency port levy had all been imposed on imported food. The supplier's invoice exceeded what Arun could afford, although the delivery receipt showed fewer boxes than ordered. His landlord would not reduce the lease, and every ordinary business expense still had to be paid. Arun considered closing before falling prices and deflation made his remaining market even weaker.

Instead, he asked the neighbourhood for help. A local community fund agreed to donate a small grant, while a retired customer offered to endow a weekly free-meal programme. Arun launched a careful promotion rather than a desperate clearance sale: families could exchange a food-bank voucher for fresh produce, and paying customers received a coupon for their next visit. His handwritten slogan read, "Buy what you need; share what you can." He also challenged the incorrect customs charge and recovered part of his tax payment.

The shop did not suddenly become rich, but it survived. Customers returned because the plan protected dignity: nobody had to explain whether they were buying food or receiving it. Arun learned that a shop's value could not be measured solely by profit. Months later, when the economy stabilised, he repaid the community fund and expanded the meal programme. The crisis had nearly emptied his shelves, yet it also revealed that honest exchange could turn a vulnerable business into a place of mutual support.

但他转而向社区求助。本地社区基金同意捐赠一小笔补助金，一位退休顾客则提出捐资支持每周免费供餐计划。阿伦没有进行绝望式清仓，而是推出谨慎的促销活动：家庭可以用食物银行的代金券兑换新鲜农产品，付费顾客则会收到下次使用的优惠券。他的手写口号是：“按需要购买，按能力分享。”他还对错误的海关收费提出申诉，追回了部分税款。

商店并未突然变得富有，却生存了下来。顾客愿意回来，是因为这个计划保护了人的尊严：没有人需要解释自己是在买食物，还是在接受援助。阿伦明白，商店的价值不能只用利润衡量。几个月后，经济趋于稳定，他偿还了社区基金，并扩大供餐计划。危机曾险些清空货架，却也证明，诚实的交换能够把一家脆弱的小店变成彼此扶持的地方。

40. The Copper Coin (那枚铜币)

主题：社会经济

目标词：40

After her grandfather died, Nina inherited his estate, including a furniture business, and an unusual legacy: a worn copper coin, one old shilling, and an unprofitable warehouse. Her grandfather had begun with little wealth, buying cheap chairs at village markets and repairing anything he considered worthy of another life. Yet sales had entered a steep decline. Costs continued to escalate, customer numbers diminished, and the company lacked sufficient cash. Nina's accountant advised her to downsize, declare several workers redundant, and sell the property.

At the warehouse auction, an affluent investment entity made the highest bid. Its planned acquisition would turn the site into luxury flats. Nina would receive a large deposit immediately and the rest in one annual instalment. During the final negotiation, however, she noticed that Tomas, the master carpenter, was absent. He was at the port protecting their last cargo: imported timber that had not been properly insured. An unexpected customs quota had delayed the import, and the company was paying to store unsold stock.

Nina postponed the transaction and examined every business account. Online sale figures were rising even as shop turnover fell. An influx of young renters wanted durable desks, but the firm sold mainly to wholesale dealers. Tomas proposed they stop trying to dump old stock and invite customers to supply design input. Nina agreed to invest her inheritance in direct online orders. Workers would earn a small wage increment for learning digital tools, and buyers would receive a repair guarantee as an incentive.

The first year was difficult, but losses began to shrink. Nina rejected the property bid and converted half the warehouse into affordable workshops. Demand from affluent buyers helped finance discounted furniture for students. Looking at the copper coin above her desk, she realised why her grandfather had left it: value could descend through generations without being measured only in money. She had preserved neither every old product nor every old habit. Instead, she had preserved the principle beneath them - waste less, make useful things, and treat skilled people as the company's greatest asset.

祖父去世后，妮娜继承了他的家具产业，以及一份不同寻常的遗产：一枚磨损的铜制的硬币、一枚旧先令和一座亏损的仓库。祖父创业时几乎没有什么财富，他在乡村市场购买便宜的椅子，并修复每件他认为值得重获新生的家具。然而，销售已经进入急剧下降期。成本持续攀升，顾客数量不断减少，公司也没有足够的现金。会计建议她缩减规模，宣布部分员工成为多余的岗位人员，并卖掉房产。

在仓库拍卖会上，一家富裕的投资实体提出了最高出价。它计划通过收购把这里改造成豪华公寓。妮娜可以立刻获得一大笔定金，余款则在一年后以一笔分期付款结清。然而，在最终谈判期间，她发现木工大师托马斯缺席了。他正在港口保护他们最后一批货物：一批没有得到妥善投保的进口木材。突如其来的海关配额延误了这批进口商品，公司还得付费储存未售出的库存。

妮娜推迟了这笔交易，并检查了每一本企业账目。网上销售数据正在上升，实体店的营业额却在下降。大量年轻租客的涌入带来了对耐用书桌的需求，但公司过去主要向批发的经销商供货。托马斯建议他们不要再试图倾销旧库存，而应邀请顾客提供设计意见。妮娜同意把遗产投资到直接网络订单业务中。工人学习数字工具后可以获得小幅工资增量，买家则能获得维修保证作为激励。

第一年十分艰难，但亏损开始缩小。妮娜拒绝了房产收购出价，并把仓库的一半改造成价格合理的工作室。来自富裕买家的需求帮助公司为学生提供折扣家具。看着办公桌上方那枚铜币，她终于明白祖父为何留下它：价值可以在几代人之间传承下来，而不必只用金钱衡量。她没有保留每一种旧产品，也没有沿袭每一种旧习惯；她保留的是背后的原则——减少浪费、制造有用的物品，并把有技能的人视为公司最重要的资产。

41. The Factory That Refused to Close (拒绝关门的工厂)

主题：社会经济 / 法律法规

目标词：40

When a falling salary budget threatened the town's electric-bus factory, an overdue payment from a foreign buyer gave the owner a convenient excuse to fire half the workforce. He ordered Mira, the payroll manager, to prepare a mass lay-off. Each employee would receive one week's wage, no remuneration for unused leave, and no refund for tools they had bought. Mira's professional career had begun there; accounting was her profession, but protecting honest work felt like a vocation. Even this devoted workaholic refused to dismiss, discharge, or sack people by spreadsheet. Her résumé described a decade of skilled labour at the factory.

Mira found a green-industry subsidy that could reimburse training costs if the factory adopted a sustainable plan. She used the discovery to prompt an emergency meeting. The union and management signed an agreement to cooperate: engineers would collaborate with drivers, while Mira would coordinate spending. Their charter set one rule - no worker could default on safety duties - and a new protocol would regulate battery disposal. Government inspectors would enforce the environmental standard, using emissions from the best plant as a benchmark and imposing a sanction for violations.

One director tried to block the plan, arguing that the law should allow immediate dismissal. Mira produced the national labour treaty, whose equality norm protected permanent staff. She also challenged a rumour that health insurance covered abortion but not prenatal care; the actual policy covered both. Her calm evidence ended the argument. Six months later, improved buses won a major contract. The factory did not merely survive: employees helped improve it, and no one lost a job.

镇上的电动公交车厂因薪资预算不断缩水而面临危机，一名海外买家又拖欠了一笔款项，老板便以此为借口，打算解雇一半员工队伍。他命令负责工资单的米拉筹备大规模裁员：每位员工只能领到一周的工资，未休假期没有任何报酬，自行购买工具的钱也不予退还。

米拉的职业生涯从这里起步；会计是她的职业，但维护诚实劳动更像她的使命。即使她一向是个投入工作的工作狂，也不愿仅凭一张表格就把人解职、辞退或开除。她的简历记录了在工厂从事十年熟练劳动的经历。

米拉查到一项绿色产业补贴：只要工厂采用可持续的方案，政府便能报销培训费用。她以此促使管理层召开紧急会议。工会与管理层签署了一份协议，同意共同合作：工程师与司机开展协作，米拉则负责协调开支。他们的章程规定了一条规则 - - 任何员工都不得在安全职责上失责 - - 并制定新规程来监管电池处理。政府检查员将执行环保标准，以最佳工厂的排放水平作为基准，违规者会受到制裁。

一名董事试图阻挠计划，声称法律应当允许立即解雇。米拉拿出国家签署的劳动条约，其中的平等规范保护长期雇员。她还澄清了一则谣言：有人说医疗保险只涵盖人工流产，却不涵盖产前护理，实际政策两者都保障。她以冷静的证据终止了争论。六个月后，改良后的公交车赢得一份大合同。工厂不但保住了，员工还共同改善了它，没有一个人失业。

42. The Lie Behind the Empty Chair (空椅背后的谎言)

主题：法律法规

目标词：40

At the first court session, an empty chair represented Tomas, a mute cleaner accused of helping a thief rob a charity. The prosecutor claimed he had committed online fraud, helped steal donations, and tried to deceive auditors. A strict bail constraint would confine him to jail if he missed any hearing. Yet his lawyer, Aisha, noticed clear discrimination: police had treated his inability to speak as guilt. They had ignored his written plea and called him a liar.

Aisha asked the judge to let an interpreter mediate. Tomas then explained that a manager had offered him a bribe to remain silent about false accounts. He had refused, and the manager threatened suicide before fleeing. Jurors heard guards mutter and spectators murmur as bank records revealed the truth. The charity's supreme governing board had failed to oversee or supervise its director. Its supposedly mandatory audit carried no potent safeguard, and vague rules merely restrict staff while doing little to restrain executives.

The evidence created a public controversy. Donors planned to boycott the charity and sue its board. Aisha argued that punishment must be based on equity, not fear; no personal sin could justify a false conviction. The jury cleared Tomas. Parliament later agreed to enact a whistle-blower law and legislate independent audits, placing a legal obligation on charities to report abuse. The real criminal was prosecuted; rumours about a digital pirate proved irrelevant. Tomas left court free, and the empty chair finally had an honest owner.

43. The Night the Museum Fought Back (博物馆反击之夜)

主题：法律法规 / 沙场争锋

目标词：40

Curator Leila received an anonymous message: thieves would raid the hilltop war museum at midnight. Their target was not gold but an early rocket blueprint whose copyright belonged to a refugee engineer. The museum could accredit its ownership, yet online extremists claimed the document should be public. Their petition demanded unrestricted access and threatened an explosion if the museum did not conform. The emergency rules would require every visitor to show identification.

Leila studied every clue. A photograph showed a twinkle beside an old cannon; another revealed a fresh glow behind a display shield. She found wires hidden under gunpowder barrels and a tiny spark device disguised as a flare. The gang had also planted a replica bomb, a stolen pistol, a rifle, and one live bullet to create panic. Police could not risk a blast or bombard the building, whose glass cases would deflect fragments into visitors. They quietly equipped and deployed a specialist team instead.

When the raiders entered carrying a blade, an ax, and a crossbow arrow, Leila locked the archive remotely. No missile was launched and no charge detonated. Confronted by officers, the leader began to confess: the threat was meant to hide the enormity of a planned sale. He would face a heavy penalty and fine, while his house mortgage might be seized. Leila chose to reconcile with the young guard who had leaked a code under pressure rather than let him succumb to lifelong stigma. At dawn, sunlight made the medals glitter - not as trophies of violence, but as reminders that courage can protect memory without destroying it.

44. The Bell Beneath the Occupation (占领下的钟声)

主题：沙场争锋

During a turbulent winter, an army began a siege of Mara's mountain town. Soldiers invaded farms, enclosed the square, and threatened to deprive residents of grain during a spreading famine. Anyone who trespassed near the storehouse was beaten; officers would intrude into homes and violate family privacy. The people's plight grew terrible, but Mara, who held the mayor's horse's rein, noticed a crucial pitfall in the occupiers' plan: they had left an old aqueduct unguarded.

Some citizens demanded immediate revolt. A furious rebel wanted to punch a guard, stab the commander, and chop the bridge supports. Mara warned that such an assault would offend neutral villages and bring a terrific retaliation. Others suspected a conspiracy and called her a traitor. She answered their reproach with proof: maps showed the aqueduct could carry food, not fighters. A true patriot, she argued, should deter cruelty without copying it. The occupiers called every act of resistance treason.

At night, volunteers used the passage to pursue a safer scenario. They supplied the destitute, then rang the hidden town bell. Its sound told neighbouring communities to block the army's supply road. Growing tension turned into turmoil among the occupiers. Their commander ordered troops to halt the raids and cease the occupation before hunger reached them too. He could no longer oppress the town or prohibit relief without losing his own men. Mara had felt dread, but no one had needed to hit or kill. The town defeated a threat through restraint, solidarity, and one forgotten waterway.

45. The Captain Who Broke the Blueprint (打破作战蓝图的舰长)

主题：沙场争锋

目标词：40

Two captains contended for command of a new rescue fleet during a naval exercise. Captain Rook treated it as a contest against his rival, Captain Imani. His strategy followed a rigid military blueprint: use a deceptive maneuver to force a disabled vessel toward shore, then deploy armed boats. Imani's tactic was slower - warn civilians, reinforce the damaged hull, and mitigate panic before towing it.

A real distress call interrupted the exercise. A ferry carrying refugees had begun to collapse in a storm. Headquarters tried to compel Imani to proceed with Rook's plan and oblige her crew to accept the peril. She protested that rough contact would impair the ferry and refuted claims that speed alone showed naval might. Above the waves, rescue drones hovered while the maritime weather worsened. Rook called her caution cowardly and used foul, even savage, language; his reckless pride threatened to devastate the operation.

Imani changed course. Her sailors used inflatable supports, and the rescue made steady progress. One volunteer made a dangerous sacrifice, diving beneath the hull, but there was no casualty and therefore no funeral or fresh grave. The refugees escaped what had felt like hell. An inquiry did not execute anyone or torture and humiliate Rook; it simply removed him from command. His claim that Imani was an evil devil was exposed as prejudice. Her humane plan achieved victory without conquest, proving that the most glorious use of military power is to save life.

46. The Veteran's Final Patrol (老兵的最后一次巡山)

主题：沙场争锋 / 社会角色

目标词：40

At eighty, Arun was a veteran, a former soldier, and the last living scout from the valley's independence campaign. Every spring he led a patrol to a hilltop monument, but this year he vanished. His grandfather had been a mountain pioneer, and Arun believed an old prophet had named their family the monument's safeguard. Newspapers called him a national hero and herald of peace, yet age had made him too proud to admit weakness. Their mission was to safeguard the mountain village.

His extended family began searching: Arun's heir, his adopted son; the son's spouse; a married couple of cousins; Arun's sibling; and his worried father-in-law. Their different gender and ages mattered less than their shared surname. Following torn camouflage, they found a narrow burrow beside the trail. It was not an animal's home but a wartime tunnel. A fallen beam formed an obstacle, and every shout seemed to shrink in the darkness. One survivor was reunited with her husband before nightfall.

Inside, Arun had refused to retreat, withdraw, or surrender when the roof cracked. He had tried to withstand the pain and forgo rescue so others would not interfere with a nearby wildlife survey. Worse, he had been misled by an old map. The family discarded pride, dug through the beam, and managed to capture his faint reply on a radio. They also found an abandoned infant, an orphan left by fleeing smugglers, beside a preserved animal embryo stolen from a laboratory.

Saving both lives became the true victory and triumph; there was no enemy to conquer. Arun named his daughter as successor to the memorial trust and asked it to support every vulnerable juvenile in the valley. At the next ceremony, he said the most glorious courage was knowing when to accept help.

八十岁的阿伦是一名退伍军人，也是一位昔日的士兵，更是山谷独立运动中最后健在的侦察兵。每年春天，他都会带队巡查山顶纪念碑，但今年他失踪了。他的祖父曾是山区的开拓者，阿伦还相信一位老先知曾说，他们家族注定要守护纪念碑。报纸称他为民族英雄和和平的先驱，年龄却让他骄傲得不肯承认衰弱。他们的任务是保护山村。

大家族开始搜寻：阿伦的继承人 - - 他的养子，养子的配偶，一对已婚表亲夫妇，阿伦的兄弟姐妹，以及焦急的岳父。众人的性别和年龄并不重要，共同的姓氏把他们连在一起。他们沿着撕破的伪装布前进，在小路旁发现一个狭窄洞穴。那里不是兽穴，而是一条战时地道。坠落的横梁成为障碍，所有呼喊似乎都在黑暗中减弱。

一名幸存者在天黑前与她的丈夫团聚。

地道里，屋顶开裂时，阿伦既不肯撤退、撤离，也不肯投降。他试图忍受疼痛，还想放弃获救机会，以免别人干扰附近的野生动物调查。更糟的是，一张旧地图误导了他。家人抛开自尊，挖开横梁，并通过无线电捕捉到他微弱的回应。他们还发现一个被走私者逃跑时遗弃的婴儿 - - 一个孤儿，旁边则有从实验室偷出的动物胚胎标本。

救下两条生命才是真正的胜利与凯旋，这里没有需要征服的敌人。阿伦指定女儿为纪念基金的继任者，并要求基金帮助山谷中每一名弱势未成年人。在下一次纪念仪式上，他说，最光荣的勇气，是懂得何时接受帮助。

47. The Wedding at Number Seventeen (十七号公寓的婚礼)

主题：社会角色

目标词：40

Nora, a daily commuter, rented one room in a crowded household at Number Seventeen. The landlady, Mrs Bell, was a cheerful widow; the absent landlord was her brother. Other residents included a shy youngster, an elderly tenant, and a visiting client of Nora's design firm. Each had a respective chore, and Nora's was cooking for every guest Mrs Bell agreed to host.

One evening Nora had an unexpected encounter with Elias, her former supervisor. He was no longer her manager, and she was no longer his subordinate. During their adolescence they had belonged to the same cycling gang, but work had forced them to separate. Elias had remained single; Nora had no dependent and lived a sole, independent life. Their old friendship returned, then became an intimate bond. Mrs Bell called them "my dear children," while the youngster teasingly said "darling" whenever either entered the kitchen.

Elias planned to propose, but a stranger arrived claiming to be his secret lover. She was actually his beloved cousin and closest kin, delivering his grandmother's ring. "Madam," she told Mrs Bell, "I am neither his mistress nor a jealous maiden." Everyone laughed, though Nora admitted she had begun to miss him before the truth emerged.

The couple announced their engagement, decided to marry, and skipped an expensive honeymoon. Instead, each individual resident transformed the courtyard into a wedding hall. Mrs Bell's husband had planted its roses long ago, so she laid his photograph beside the cake. Elias greeted every old comrade, and Nora realised that a house full of people once unknown to one another had become a family.

长租客，以及到访的诺拉设计公司的客户。每个人都有各自的家务，诺拉负责为贝尔太太接待的每一位客人做饭，而贝尔太太则充当主人。

埃利亚斯打算求婚，一名陌生人却突然出现，自称是他的秘密情人。其实她是他最心爱的表妹，也是关系最近的亲属，专程送来祖母的戒指。“女士，”她对贝尔太太说，“我既不是他的情妇，也不是吃醋的未婚女子。”众人都笑了；诺拉则承认，真相揭晓前，她已经开始想念埃利亚斯。

这对情侣宣布订婚，决定结婚，并放弃昂贵的蜜月。公寓里的每个个人都动手把院子改造成婚礼大厅。贝尔太太已故的丈夫多年前种下了院里的玫瑰，于是她把他的照片放在蛋糕旁。埃利亚斯迎接每一位旧伙伴，诺拉终于明白：这座原本住着陌生人的房子，已经变成了一个家。

48. The Oath on the Flooded Street (洪水街头的誓言)

主题：社会角色 / 行为动作

目标词：40

When the river burst its banks, an armed thief took the town cashier hostage inside the market. Lina, an apprentice veterinary nurse, saw a frightened horse collapse beside them. The local council was meeting nearby: its chancellor, a regional delegate, a legal consultant, a solicitor, and an attorney had gathered to debate flood barriers. Lina's mother, a counsellor, urged everyone to behave calmly rather than react in fear.

Help came from unlikely places. A fireman became rescue commander and sent his deputy to clear the street. A gardener and fisherman rowed families to safety; the butcher cut ropes; a wedding groom carried children; and a former football umpire directed traffic. Even a hungry beggar helped mow reeds blocking a drain. No one wanted to be a coward, though hours of toil left them exhausted.

Lina approached the horse, took one careful intake of breath, then slowly exhaled. Through a broken shutter she caught a glimpse of the hostage and dared to peep again. She gazed at the thief, then peered at his shaking hand.

"Before you act, contemplate what happens next," she said. She offered to nourish and revive his injured horse if he released the cashier.

The thief surrendered. The chancellor called Lina a heroine, but she named the whole town the hero. As a proponent of better emergency planning, she asked the council to make a public pledge. Its members took an oath and vowed to build the barriers before the next rainy season. Their promise began not in a grand chamber, but on a flooded street.

49. The Tram on Copper Bridge (铜桥上的电车)

主题：行为动作

目标词：40

Control called to notify engineer Mei that a driverless tram was racing toward Copper Bridge. She did not panic or hurry blindly, but told her crew to hasten to the maintenance car. Managers began to scold, curse, and swear over the radio. Mei calmly asserted that blame would only provoke mistakes. She would explain the failure later; now there was no time to dispute or even mention old grievances.

Their car accelerated to overtake the tram and establish radio contact. A cable could tow it, but first a technician had to grab the coupling and keep a firm grip. Loose tools began to vibrate, shuffle, and scatter as both vehicles swayed. Wheels rotated so fast that sparks seemed to whirl. If the cars collided, steel could split, glass could smash, and sharp edges might scrape or pierce passengers.

Mei ordered the crew to loosen one brake, twist a valve, and tilt the towing arm. A mechanic reached out to snatch the cable before it could penetrate a window. The coupling made a violent touch, but held. Mei then integrated the tram's emergency system with her controls and slowed both vehicles before the bridge.

On the platform, relieved passengers began to clap. One elderly man tried to kneel in thanks, but Mei stopped him. She did not boast, preach, or mock the frightened driver who had made a programming mess. Instead, she documented how a loose sensor had caused the fault. Her discipline turned a chain of moving metal into a rescue rather than a collision.

50. The Last Bet at Mirage Casino (幻影赌场的最后赌注)

主题：行为动作

目标词：40

Detective Samira followed a paper trail to Mirage Casino, where a criminal network used bright shows to mesmerise tourists and allure desperate gamblers. Its owner would tempt guests with a free bet, then induce them to raise the stake and gamble away their savings. Cameras helped staff manipulate anyone who became obsessed. The irony was that the building had once been baptised "Hope House."

Samira's mission would involve more than gambling. The gang planned to kidnap a witness, hijack a bus, and smuggle people across the border. A guard tried to bully her informant and strangle him with a wire. Samira chose to intervene. She used a delivery van to steer through a service gate, though barriers impeded her and mirrored corridors could bewilder anyone who deviated from the map.

In the basement she found historical weapons marked as trophies from a massacre and the decimation of a village. The display filled her with contempt and recalled the indignity suffered by survivors. It also exposed the owner's bias, ignorance, and deliberate disregard for truth. He had used fear as bait, while officials' neglect allowed the business to grow.

Police freed the witness before panic spread. A court would convict the owner and expel his foreign partners. Samira did not seek revenge or let the case become a nightmare that would obsess her. Authorities designated the building a survivor-support centre and assigned her informant a protection officer. Visitors would soon marvel that a place built to exploit weakness had become a shelter from it.

51. The Crates Marked Not for Sale (标着“非卖品”的救援箱)

主题：行为动作

目标词：40

After a cyclone, relief coordinator Hana prepared to launch a supply mission to Bell Island. At dawn, trucks would dispatch food to the harbour and boats would distribute it among villages. The contract stipulated that no official could exclude remote families or exploit the emergency. Hana wanted to assure islanders that aid would arrive and reassure frightened volunteers, but dark clouds continued to loom offshore. The rescue mission would officially commence at dawn.

At the warehouse, Hana discovered medicine crates in disguise beneath commercial labels. A corrupt clerk had tried to conceal them, detach their tracking tags, and erase the records. He planned to dispose of cheap supplies, omit two villages from the route, and cancel their delivery so he could sell the medicine privately. When confronted, he refused to speak. Hana used backup files to reverse his changes, undo the false orders, and rectify the inventory.

The storm forced the team to resort to fishing boats, yet they did not abandon their purpose. Volunteers strove to fulfil every promise. They had to tackle high waves, cope with seasickness, and exert all their strength to unload the cargo. Their effort began to restore trust. Food would replenish empty kitchens, generators would supply power, and canvas sheets would render damaged schools usable again.

The mission helped Hana redeem an earlier failure that still made her yearn for a second chance. She had always aspired to serve isolated communities; now the work seemed to invoke that old ambition and satisfy an itch to act. The team used larger boats to enlarge capacity and solar chargers to augment limited power, helping offset transport delays. By sunset, villagers had received every crate, and no one could turn disaster relief into private profit.

52. The Siren Beneath the Applause (掌声下的警报)

主题：行为动作

目标词：40

During a chemical plant's anniversary, director Vale used giant screens to magnify his achievements and loudspeakers to amplify every compliment. Guests came to celebrate, congratulate him, and salute retiring workers. Vale loved to flatter investors and expected employees to worship efficiency for profit's sake. Safety officer Priya, however, refused to exaggerate the factory's record. Her sole objective was to uphold the truth. The spectacle could arouse excitement throughout the town.

Behind the stage, a cracked pipe began to leak. Solvent would seep through a wall, ooze beneath a door, and finally spill into a drainage trench. Sensors designed to trigger an alarm failed because Vale had disconnected their backup to avoid interrupting the ceremony. Priya could specify the broken valve and verify the rising pressure, but music continued to muffle her warnings. Smoke began to overshadow the lights.

Priya seized a microphone. She would not excuse Vale's decision, yet begged the crowd to regard evacuation as a precaution, not panic. Workers helped evacuate guests before fumes could saturate the hall. Engineers used pumps to propel contaminated water into sealed tanks. Then the share price began to plummet, and Vale tried to attribute the accident to Priya. Retrieved messages allowed her to testify and retrieve the missing maintenance report; the dates corresponded exactly.

An inquiry chose not to prolong blame. It demanded reform and asked workers to assort damaged equipment for inspection. Priya helped enlighten managers and impart practical safety lessons. Vale apologised, and she agreed to forgive him only after he accepted responsibility. Months later, workers welcomed Priya as the new director. At Vale's quiet farewell, she found genuine pleasure in seeing safety valued more than applause.

53. The Portrait That Remembered (记得往事的肖像)

主题：行为动作 / 身心健康

目标词：40

After a climbing accident, illustrator Tomas could not recall his daughter's face. He could recollect the fall and retell the rescue, yet when asked to repeat her name, shame would mortify him. In retrospect, doctors believed trauma had altered how his brain linked memory and emotion. Fear began to pervade his every mood, changing his gentle temper and lively personality.

Therapist Mei asked Tomas to draw a human figure. He began with its stature, then the skeleton, backbone, and skull. He added each limb, shoulder, elbow, palm, thumb, and finger. Slowly he drew the neck, chin, jaw, mouth, and tongue, then the brow and a single eyelash. He marked a rib and the abdomen, carefully trying to differentiate anatomy from memory. Whenever his paper began to incline, Mei told him not to lean so hard on the table.

One afternoon, Tomas drew a mountain gorge behind the figure. The feature startled him: his daughter had once painted that same place. A tiny scar above the figure's eye became the trait that unlocked everything. Memory returned - not as a dramatic vision, but as the sound of his daughter laughing with paint on her nose.

Tomas still had to surmount headaches, but he no longer viewed illness as weakness. Patience became his strongest virtue. At his next exhibition, the finished portrait did not merely impress viewers through technical skill; every bodily feature showed the path by which a father had found his child again.

治疗师梅请托马斯画一幅人体。他先勾勒人物的身材高度，再画出骨骼、脊柱和头骨。随后，他添上每一条肢体、肩膀、肘部、手掌、拇指和手指。他慢慢画出颈部、下巴、下颌

、嘴巴和舌头，又画上眉部与一根睫毛；接着标出一根肋骨和腹部，努力把解剖知识与记忆区分开。每当画纸开始倾斜，梅都会提醒他不要太用力倚靠桌子。

一天下午，托马斯在人物背后画出一道山间峡谷。这个细节让他突然一惊：女儿以前画过同一个地方。人物眼睛上方的一道小疤痕，成了打开全部记忆的关键特征。记忆回来了 - - 不是戏剧性的幻象，而是女儿鼻尖沾着颜料时的笑声。

托马斯仍需克服头痛，却不再把疾病视为软弱。耐心成了他最强大的美德。下一次画展中，完成的肖像不仅凭技巧给观众留下深刻印象；画中每一处身体特点，都展示了一位父亲重新找到女儿的道路。

54. The File Labelled “Dumb” (标着“哑巴”的病历)

主题：身心健康

目标词：40

Medical student Amara opened an old village file that described twelve-year-old Ben as “deaf and dumb.” Ben was neither unable to think nor unable to speak; an untreated aural infection had damaged his hearing, and adults had mistaken his silence for ignorance. A vague note also called him lame, although a visible scar on his heel showed that tight shoes - not a crippled muscle - made him limp.

Amara offered a complete examination. Ben remained awake, though he had begun to doze during long lessons and often needed a nap after school. She checked every joint, from shoulder to knee, and tested each nerve from thigh to toe. A pulse in an artery was normal; so were every skin pore, digestive intestine, stomach, liver, and kidney. Blood tests showed no damaged gland, abnormal hormone, or weakened immune response. A dental check found only one loose tooth. Ben sat on his mother's lap while the doctor explained the results.

The examination also exposed careless language elsewhere in the archive. One woman with a healthy pregnancy had been described as carrying a “dwarf baby” merely because an early image looked small inside the womb. Another patient had been called blind before anyone tested her eyes. Amara explained contraception, including correct condom use, and warned that labels could cripple confidence even when they did not physically cripple a person.

Ben's hearing improved after treatment. A sound became a useful stimulus, and a regular lifestyle restored his biorhythm and sleep habit; he was soon peacefully asleep each night instead of producing a tired moan. At a hospital meeting, Amara placed the outdated file in the centre chamber of the archive and requested its correction. The clinic removed the insulting label and began treating patients as people rather than diagnoses.

医学生阿玛拉打开一份乡村旧病历，上面把十二岁的本写成“耳聋而且哑的”。本并非不会思考，也不是不能说话；一场未经治疗的听觉系统的感染损害了他的听力，大人却把沉默误认为无知。一条模糊的记录还称他跛脚，然而他脚后跟上明显的伤痕表明，是鞋子过紧让他走路一瘸一拐，并不是肌肉残疾。

阿玛拉为他做了全面检查。本一直保持清醒，不过漫长课堂上会开始打瞌睡，放学后也常需小睡。她检查了从肩部到膝盖的每个关节，又测试从大腿到脚趾的每条神经。一条动脉的脉搏正常；皮肤上的每个毛孔、消化系统的肠道、胃、肝脏和肾脏也都正常。血液检测没有发现受损腺体、异常激素或减弱的免疫反应。牙科检查只发现一颗松动牙齿。医生解释检查结果时，本坐在母亲的大腿上。

这次检查还揭示了档案中其他草率措辞。一名处于健康妊娠期的女性，仅因早期影像中胎儿在子宫里显得较小，就被写成怀着“侏儒婴儿”。另一位病人甚至在接受视力检查前便被称为失明的。阿玛拉讲解了避孕知识，包括正确使用避孕套，并警告说，即使标签不会使人的身体残废，也可能摧毁其自信。

治疗后，本的听力有所改善。声音成为有益的刺激；规律的生活方式恢复了他的生物节律与睡眠习惯，他很快每晚都能安然入睡，不再疲惫地发出呻吟。在医院会议上，阿玛拉把过时病历放在档案馆中央房间，要求予以更正。诊所删除了侮辱性标签，开始把病人当作人，而不是一串诊断结果。

55. The Race Leo Did Not Finish (利奥没有跑完的比赛)

主题：身心健康

目标词：40

Leo believed overwork proved strength. Despite chronic insomnia, he trained through fatigue, a sore knee, and a dark bruise beside an old scar. During a charity race, a sudden headache made him faint. His legs felt feeble, his vision blurred, and medics feared a stroke or heart attack. They stopped the race before exhaustion could paralyse him.

At hospital, Leo became an impatient patient. "I'm not an invalid," he protested. Dr Sen agreed but explained that a seemingly broken body could reveal hidden trouble. Tests ruled out cancer, a lethal infection, and any mysterious plague. There was no fever, flu, dangerous lump, or fatal injury. His small pimple was harmless, and the swollen joint was not arthritis. However, he had hypertension, early diabetes, and liver dysfunction linked to obesity.

The diagnosis felt like doom. Leo called it insane that a fit-looking runner could be ill and imagined his own demise. Dr Sen showed him the medical corpus of evidence: appearance does not cancel risk. Years of stress could exhaust the heart, weaken blood vessels, and turn a manageable condition into a mortal danger. The emotional trauma of collapsing was real, but it need not determine his future.

Leo rested, changed his diet, and accepted treatment. He also learned that his skin allergy and occasional pain were separate issues, not signs of disaster. Months later, he returned to the race as a volunteer rather than a runner. Watching others cross the line, he no longer felt weary or ashamed. Not finishing one race had prevented a far more serious detriment to his health - and taught him that endurance includes knowing when to stop.

利奥相信过度工作能够证明强大。尽管长期受慢性失眠困扰，他仍顶着疲劳、酸痛的膝盖以及旧伤疤旁的一块深色瘀伤坚持训练。一次慈善赛跑中，突如其来的头痛使他昏倒。他

的双腿变得虚弱，视线模糊，医护人员担心他发生中风或心脏病发作，于是及时终止比赛，以免力竭使他瘫痪。

进了医院，利奥成了一个没有耐心的病人。“我不是病弱者。”他抗议道。森医生表示赞同，但解释说，看似受损的身体可能暴露隐藏问题。检查排除了癌症、致命的感染以及任何神秘瘟疫。他没有发烧、流感、危险肿块或致命的损伤；那颗小粉刺没有危害，肿胀的关节也不是关节炎。不过，他确实患有高血压、早期糖尿病以及与肥胖相关的肝功能障碍。

这份诊断听起来如同厄运。利奥觉得，一个外表健壮的跑者居然会生病，简直荒唐，甚至想象起自己的死亡。森医生向他展示完整的医学证据资料汇编：外表不能消除风险。多年压力会耗尽心脏的力量，削弱血管，并使可控病情变成足以致死的危险。倒下带来的心理创伤确实存在，却不必决定他的未来。

利奥开始休息、改变饮食并接受治疗。他还明白，自己的皮肤过敏和偶尔疼痛只是独立问题，并非灾难征兆。几个月后，他以志愿者而非跑者身份重返赛场。看着其他人越过终点，他不再感到疲倦或羞愧。没有完成一场比赛，反而避免了健康受到更严重的损害，也让他懂得：真正的耐力还包括知道何时停下。

56. The Ward Behind the Glass Door (玻璃门后的病房)

主题：身心健康

目标词：40

Surgeon Elena arrived at the mountain hospital ready to perform a kidney transplant. An X-ray and blood test looked agreeable, and the donor's infection risk seemed negligible. Then a nurse reported a mysterious fever in the next ward. Elena's previously merry team grew silent. Some staff became pessimistic, while one administrator remained almost indifferent, calling the result merely negative publicity.

Elena treated the warning as a necessary precaution. She ordered the ward to quarantine exposed visitors, isolate symptomatic patients, and segregate clean equipment from used supplies. A sanitary corridor protected the operating theatre, while strict hygiene rules supported safe health care. The local pharmacy checked every medicine, from a routine antibiotic to penicillin, and prepared each dose. Nurses offered an injection and arranged to vaccinate vulnerable residents.

The transplant had to pause. The frightened recipient began to lament the delay, but Elena promised to alleviate his pain. She followed his prescription, used a careful amount of morphine, and offered acupuncture as an additional remedy. Physical therapy, gentle fitness work, and time to relax helped him remain strong. These measures were supportive rather than magically curative, but they allowed his body to heal.

Tests eventually identified a minor virus, not an outbreak. The apathetic administrator apologised for dismissing the danger. Elena could finally resume surgery, and the transplant succeeded. During the patient's steady recovery, his family felt pure pleasure and began to rejoice. Elena reminded them that no single treatment deserves all the credit: careful systems, skilled people, and respect for risk had opened the glass door safely.

57. The Doctor Who Climbed for a Library (为一座图书馆登山的医生)

主题：身心健康

目标词：40

Dr Yusuf's mountain village was picturesque and hospitable, but its clinic owned only three books. He proposed an arduous sponsored climb to fund a library. The idea was surprising enough to startle his colleagues: Yusuf was a prominent surgeon, yet not a robust athlete. Still, his earnest manner, quiet confidence, and keen desire to learn attracted a lively team. His obvious honesty soon won the villagers' trust.

Training became hectic but exciting. A liberal headteacher welcomed every volunteer; a humble farmer offered food; and a polite, friendly guide taught climbing skills. He was frank about the danger and direct in every instruction. One curious student asked about a mysterious light near the summit, while a daring reporter called the expedition "manly." Yusuf replied that courage had no gender and should include being thoughtful and sympathetic toward weaker climbers.

During the ascent, falling ice produced an amazing roar that seemed to astound the valley. The sight could exhilarate anyone, but Yusuf took the risk seriously. When a climber slipped, the whole team was ready. Their sound rope system held, and Yusuf's calm care restored morale. His zeal never replaced caution.

The group reached the summit at sunrise. The achievement was remarkable, yet Yusuf was most proud when villagers opened boxes of books below. Donations exceeded the satisfactory target, making a children's science room both desirable and possible. A young teacher thanked him with sincere gratitude; a donor jokingly offered a romantic novel for the first shelf. The library's future looked promising, not because one doctor conquered a mountain, but because an entire community climbed with him.

58. The Greenhouse After Grief (悲伤之后的温室)

主题：身心健康

目标词：40

After his wife's death, carpenter Emil lived in agony. Grief made ordinary days miserable, and he would grieve alone in his private workshop. A gloomy silence filled the house. Friends feared that repeated disappointment would discourage him, while Emil blamed fate and felt too wretched to answer their calls. Even a dripping tap became a terrible nuisance that could irritate him into rage. She also lived with constant distress after the loss.

His granddaughter Mina proposed rebuilding her grandmother's greenhouse. Emil's first intuition was to refuse. The work would be strenuous and require rigorous measurements; rotten beams were liable to fall. Mina's naive, sometimes childish confidence made him frown, but her sincere purpose softened him. Together they chose sturdy timber and worked through temperate spring days. Emil remained steadfast, teaching her to be careful, while Mina handled each fragile seedling with tender hands.

The project exposed their mutual pain. Mina said her grandfather seemed sane but absent; Emil admitted that even a sane person could suffer. Their sorrow did not resemble an imaginary illness or an illusion. His anger was real: he could become furious, hate cheerful music, and feel hatred toward the unfair world. Yet the greenhouse gave those emotions somewhere to go.

One morning, a spontaneous shower washed dust from the glass, leaving the young plants almost naked in sunlight. The beauty carried an implicit promise rather than a cure. Emil, once a cautious craftsman, became unexpectedly enterprising and planned to sell herbs for the hospice. The task remained partly mundane and often frustrating, but he proved trustworthy to every customer. He did not stop missing his wife; he simply built a life strong enough to hold both love and loss.

妻子去世后，木匠埃米尔一直生活在痛苦中。悲伤使普通日子变得悲惨，他总是独自在私人的工作间里哀悼。家中弥漫着阴郁的寂静。朋友担心接连的失望会使他泄气，埃米尔却责怪命运，觉得自己太过可怜，连电话也不愿接。甚至漏水的水龙头都会成为糟糕的麻烦事，足以激怒他，使他陷入暴怒。失去亲人后，她还承受着持续的忧伤。

孙女米娜提议重建祖母的温室。埃米尔的第一直觉是拒绝。这项工作会很费力，还需要严格的测量；腐烂横梁很可能掉下来。米娜天真的、有时甚至孩子气的信心让他皱眉，但她真诚的心愿软化了他。他们共同选用结实的木材，在气候温和的春日里劳作。埃米尔始终坚定不移，教她谨慎做事；米娜则用温柔的双手照料每株脆弱幼苗。

这项工程暴露了两人共同的痛苦。米娜说，祖父看起来神志正常，心却不在这里；埃米尔承认，即使是心智健全的人也会受苦。他们的悲伤并不类似于某种想象出来的疾病，更不是幻觉。他的愤怒真实存在：他会变得怒不可遏，会讨厌欢快音乐，也会对不公平的世界充满仇恨。但温室让这些情绪有了安放之处。

一天清晨，一场自发而来的阵雨洗掉玻璃上的尘土，幼苗在阳光下几乎裸露无掩。这份美好带来一种含蓄的承诺，而非治愈一切的灵药。曾经谨慎的工匠埃米尔变得意外地富有进取心，计划出售香草，为临终关怀机构筹款。工作依然有些平凡乏味，也常常令人沮丧，但他向每一位顾客证明自己值得信赖。他并没有停止思念妻子，只是重新建起一种足以同时容纳爱与失去的生活。

59. The Rehearsal No One Wanted (无人愿意参加的排练)

主题：身心健康

目标词：40

Director Bram ruled the community theatre through fear. He would harass junior actors, insult anyone who forgot a line, and vex the crew with excessive rehearsals. His jokes were vulgar, his criticism nasty, and his temper volatile. Under adverse conditions, even a small delay made him mad. Some called his methods wicked and vicious; others stayed silent because his ego made him hostile to advice. Everyone found the criticism deeply unpleasant.

During rehearsal, Bram accused timid actor Noah of being slothful, careless, and stupid. Noah was not lazy: a weird lighting flash had left him uneasy and restless. Bram remained oblivious to the faulty cable and made an unkind remark about Noah's timid voice. Costume designer Aya became indignant. She said Bram's behaviour was an obtrusive nuisance, not artistic discipline, and demanded a radical change.

Bram dismissed her concern as a fuss. His rash, selfish decision to continue made the unstable lamp fall. No one was hurt, but suspicion turned to proof: the equipment was unstable and the room unsuitable for rehearsal. Even Bram's most reluctant supporters refused to endure another unsafe night. They were not ignorant; nor would his cunning excuses mislead them.

The board suspended Bram. At first he felt jealous of Aya's leadership and called the decision unsatisfactory. Weeks later, he returned to repent publicly. Aya did not offer instant forgiveness, but she did offer tolerance if he accepted supervision. Bram agreed. The next production succeeded because every performer could question a decision without fear. The theatre lost one tyrant, and Bram slowly learned that respect creates better art than intimidation.

导演布拉姆依靠恐惧统治社区剧院。他会骚扰年轻演员，侮辱任何忘词的人，还用过度的排练惹恼剧组。他的玩笑十分粗俗，批评也很恶毒，脾气更是反复无常。在不利的条件下

，一点延误都能使他发病般愤怒。有人称他的方法邪恶而凶残；另一些人则保持沉默，因为他的自我意识使他对建议抱有敌意。所有人都觉得这种批评十分令人不快。

排练期间，布拉姆指责腼腆的演员诺亚懒惰、粗心而且愚蠢。诺亚并非偷懒：一次怪异的灯光闪烁使他不安、坐立不安。布拉姆仍没有察觉故障电缆，还针对诺亚胆怯的声音说了一句刻薄的话。服装设计师阿雅十分愤慨。她说，布拉姆的行为是一种显眼而烦人的麻烦，不是艺术纪律，并要求进行彻底的改变。

布拉姆把她的担忧斥为小题大做。他轻率而自私的决定使排练继续，结果不稳的灯具坠落下来。虽然无人受伤，但原先的怀疑变成了证据：设备确实不稳定，房间也不适合排练。就连最不情愿的支持者也拒绝继续忍受不安全的夜晚。他们并不无知，更不会再被布拉姆狡猾的借口误导。

董事会暂停了布拉姆的职务。起初，他嫉妒阿雅的领导地位，称决定不能令人满意。几周后，他回来公开悔过。阿雅没有立刻原谅他，但如果他愿意接受监督，她可以给予宽容。布拉姆同意了。下一部作品获得成功，因为每一位表演者都能毫无畏惧地质疑决定。剧院摆脱了一名暴君，而布拉姆也逐渐明白，尊重比恐吓更能创造好作品。

60. The Clock That Would Not Hurry (不肯快走的钟)

主题：身心健康 / 时间日期

目标词：40

In the modern era, clockmaker Mara maintained a medieval tower clock that had marked midday for nearly a century. A recent inspection found its mechanism sluggish, and the mayor demanded an up-to-date motor overnight. He followed a rigid stereotype: old machines were slow, while new ones solved everything in an instant. Mara resisted the impulse to argue.

She reviewed the preceding repair and all prior records. Initially, twelve gears - a dozen - seemed worn. Secondly, the bell had missed three consecutive strikes. Most importantly, a cracked intermediate wheel could fail at any moment. There was no exact precedent for replacing it, because the foremost surviving design dated from another millennium. A note claimed the clock had ticked a billion times, though Mara knew that figure was symbolic.

In the midst of repairs, an imminent festival increased pressure. The clock's daily, monthly, quarterly, and yearly maintenance logs all needed review. In the meantime, the mayor scheduled simultaneous fireworks and a bell ceremony. Mara warned that the ongoing restoration required a realistic duration. She could not promise an everlasting machine, only careful work and periodically inspected parts.

Mara completed the gear just before noon, but refused to finish until she tested it. At the decisive moment, the hands met and the bell rang precisely. The mayor, normally punctual, arrived late and missed the first chime. Incidentally, his expensive motor remained unopened. The successful repair showed that age was not the enemy of accuracy; neglect was. The clock would never hurry, but with patience it would continue to keep honest time.

在这个现代的时代，钟表匠玛拉负责维护一座中世纪的塔钟；近一个世纪以来，它一直在正午报时。一次最近的检查发现机械装置运转迟缓，市长却要求一夜之间装上一台最新的

电动机。他抱着一种僵化的刻板印象：旧机器一定缓慢，新机器则能在瞬间解决一切。玛拉忍住了争辩的冲动。

她查阅了上一次维修情况和所有先前的记录。起初，有十二个齿轮 - - 整整一打 - - 看似已经磨损。其次，钟铃连续漏敲了三次，也就是三次连续的失误。最重要的是，一个开裂的中间齿轮随时可能在某个时刻失效。更换它没有完全相同的先例，因为现存最重要的设计来自另一个千年时期。一份说明声称塔钟已摆动十亿次，不过玛拉知道这个数字只是象征。

维修进行到中途时，即将到来的节庆加大了压力。塔钟的每日、每月、每季度和每年维护记录都需要复查。在此期间，市长安排烟花与钟声仪式同时举行。玛拉提醒他，这项持续进行的修复需要合理的持续时间。她无法承诺一台永恒不坏的机器，只能保证认真工作，并定期地检查零件。

玛拉在中午前完成了齿轮，却拒绝在测试前宣布完成。决定性的一刻，指针相遇，钟声准确响起。平日一向准时的市长反而迟到，错过了第一声钟响。顺便一提，他买来的昂贵电动机仍未拆封。这次成功维修证明，年龄并不是准确性的敌人，疏忽才是。塔钟永远不会匆忙，但只要有耐心，它就会继续诚实地记录时间。
